Earth's Ant Hill We're Saving Money "Big as a 5-Cent Piece" How Morvich Travels

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

You ride across acres of grassy fields, and suddenly come upon a few square yards covered by an ant village, with its little piles of sand, tiny holes and tunnels. Your foot steps on the village, and everything is excitement. Rebuilding, rushing, planning, restoring.

Similarly, the sun's light rides millions of miles through the fields of ether, and comes upon this ant village called the earth, also in great agitation, war having put his foot upon it. There is rushing, planning, rebuilding, and the centre of agitation is Genoa.

You learn that Japan is making a treaty with Russia. Italy plans to make a separate Russian peace and agreement promptly if the Allies fail to do so.

The French and the English ants are fighting, bitter against each other. The French ant stands close to his little Belgian brother, saying: "We stick together, he fought for me."

Nobody steps on our American ant hill, or at least not seriously. And if there is any wisdom here, we shall keep away from the European rush and squabble.

President Harding, boss of the American ant hill, announces that we are trying to do financial reconstruction here. The government will spend sixteen hundred million dollars less in 1922 than in 1921, if hopes are realized.

In addition to thanking President Harding, the people should thank Mr. Madden, of Illinois, chairman of the committee that has cut down expenditures.

French franca and Belgian francs dropped in value yesterday. Men that deal in money, not sentiment, believe the Allied situation is weakened and that France and Belgium are not as strong as they were, with England disgruntled and untrue with Italy in an offer to lend three hundred million gold francs to Russia.

You have read in this column the suggestion that England, before long, would make with Germany a treaty apart from the Allies.

Henry Wickham Steed, editor of the London Times, says Lloyd George is contemplating "an agreement with Germany, even at the cost of abandoning the British claims for reparation." The European kaleidoscope changes rapidly.

Man proposes. God disposes. Small things, presumably the agents of the Deity, settle important matters.

Thomas F. Ryan said of H. P. Davison, of Morgan & Company:

"When Morgan and Rockefeller and the rest of us are gone Davison will be richer than all of us." That was a few years ago at a birthday dinner given to Mr. Ryan by his son, Allan.

The elder Morgan is gone, John D. Rockefeller and Thomas F. Ryan are still here, and H. P. Davison is gone, taking with him the main supplying of J. P. Morgan & Co. It will probably find another mainspring. It has the finest materials to offer.

Mr. Davison left ten millions, which is a long way from wealth according to the modern idea.

In announcing the operation that caused his death, Morgan & Co. said it was necessary to remove from Mr. Davison's brain a tumor "about as big as a five-cent piece."

Through the circulating blood into the brain had traveled a fragment of tissue capable of setting up and building a body of its own. "No bigger than a five-cent piece," that wandering fragment ended the activities of a brain that might have built a fortune of thousands of millions.

Morvich travels surrounded by every care. Food to which he is accustomed goes with him. His shoemaker is his own servants' company him. His car, "carefully routed," travels so swiftly "that only a millionaire's private car could have done better."

Morvich is a race horse, not a celebrity. His shoemaker is a blacksmith. He had five kinds of hay, and especially chosen oats and bran. Water to which he was accustomed was brought in a thoroughly sterilized new milk can. That is what we do for animals on which fools bet their money and by which gamblers make their fortunes.

The contrast of that race horse traveling "as only a millionaire in his private car could travel" with another picture, that of a harassed poor mother, arriving from Europe with five or six children only to be turned back at the door of freedom, will tell future generations all they care to know about our civilization.

WAR HERO IN CAPITAL TO PRESS CHARGES

Young Robertson Declares His Love for Culberson's Daughter Was "Honorable"

Washington, May 9.—Alexander E. Robertson, British war veteran, arrived here today from Newark, N. J., to carry out his announced purpose of laying before the British embassy his charges of kidnaping against three private detectives. He declares they attempted to force his departure from the country because of his affection for Miss Mary Culberson, 21-year-old daughter of Senator Culberson of Texas.

Bloomfield, N. J., May 9.—Worn and haggard from anxiety and loss of sleep, Alexander E. Robertson paused at the doorstep of his aunt's modest white cottage before leaving for Washington and pleading for "justice."

The young British war veteran, who had made the startling charge that detectives in the pay of Senator Culberson of Texas, former candidate for the Presidential nomination, kidnaped him because of his ardent and romantic courtship of Miss Mary Culberson, the Senator's daughter, is aghast at the magnitude of the sensation which his charges caused.

"I was honest in my love affair," he said as he ran a hand through his troubled hair, his, tried ones sighting.

"I wish we could have avoided all this notoriety," Robertson declared. He said he had retained Judge Thomas Davis of Lke Orange and had been forbidden by him to discuss details of the charges and counter-charges that have developed in the case.

TRIED TO SPARE GIRL.

"So many things have been said in the papers about me, about things that I know absolutely nothing at all about that I do not know where I stand by this time, in public opinion. I do not even know how to answer them," he said.

"I am under Judge Davis' orders not to answer charges in detail anyway. It is by his advice that I am going to Washington."

At Washington the British embassy, which came into the case on an appeal from Mrs. P. A. Andrews, the young man's aunt, is making an investigation of the case.

Mrs. Andrews brought the case to public light when Robertson, according to an earlier statement by him, was complying with the seeming compulsion of circumstances "to save Miss Culberson from disgraceful publicity."

"My aunt has been a brick in standing by me," said Robertson.

Robertson's laconic message to his fair fiancee, the daughter of the United States Senator, to the effect:

"Let's elope. Send $1,500," caused the Senator and Mrs. Culberson to forbid their daughter to marry Robertson.

The young man from Britain is also said to have boosted the Sen-

Has Her Husband Put Under Arrest

"Nothing but Spite Work and Frame-up," Says Accused Man in Court

Mr. Paul says he fought Mr. Crawford with bare fists. The latter is mum about the combat. Mrs. Crawford and Mrs. Paul figure in new suits. The four-cornered tangle involves separations and prospective divorces.

GIRL AND 2 MEN HELD; LOOT IS FOUND

Special Officers O'Neil and Dissessa of the East Dedham street station today arrested Abraham Abramovitz, alias James Bennett, of Chelsea, and Frank Ferrera, alias Frank Barton, of Cumberland street, Back Bay, on a charge of larceny from an unidentified person.

The men were found, according to the police, attempting to dispose of a quantity of jewelry, including platinum bar pins, cameos, diamond rings and pendant, lady's watch, stick pin, gold chains and opera glasses, at a place in Columbus avenue.

Abramovitz told the police, the officers charge, that he had given two necklaces to Miss Freida Webber, eighteen years old, of Huntington avenue, Back Bay. The girl was arrested charged with receiving stolen property.

All three were later arraigned in Municipal Court.

HUSBANDS FIGHT BARE-FISTED IN OFFICE

Details of a battle with bare fists between a jealous husband and a former friend leaked out today as one of the startling developments in the tangled matrimonial affairs of Edward J. Paul and his pretty wife, Grace H. Paul, prominent in Newton and Watertown society circles.

The man with whom Mr. Paul fought was Frederick Crawford, Newton business man.

Mr. Paul told the story of the battle today for the first time, his tongue loosed by what he called "the spite charge of larceny" of $1,700 from the Atlantic Machine Screw Company, of which he was formerly manager, and of which his wife, who is suing for divorce, is chief stockholder.

"When I found that my pleading with my wife to keep away from the glare of divorce court publicity had been in vain, I lost my temper," said Mr. Paul today.

BARE-FISTED FIGHT.

"I went to Crawford's business office. I struck him. We fought with our bare fists.

"I don't care to say any more about that fight. You'll have to get any other details from the other side. But I was not hurt."

Mr. Crawford today was asked for a statement regarding the battle with Mr. Paul, but declined to make any.

"Mr. Paul says that he beat you up with his bare fists," said the reporter. "Is that correct?"

"I won't talk about the fight at all," Mr. Crawford replied.

When arraigned on the larceny charge in Superior Court, Mr. Paul was held in $2,000 bail, which he promptly furnished. He is forty-two years old and for some time has been employed w h a bond house on State street as a bond salesman. He was formerly Newton park commissioner.

In the co-plaint it was alleged that Mr. Paul formerly manager of the Atlantic Machine Screw Com-

GIRL FROM CONCORD ELOPES

Flees Fashionable School in Philadelphia and Weds U. P. Student

Philadelphia, May 9.—Horace Chenery, a wealthy citizen of Concord, Mass., strode angrily into the Thirty-second street police station today demanding of the sergeant on duty advice on the best way to sever the marital ties into which his daughter, a school-girl here, had entered with a University of Pennsylvania student in Holy Trinity Church yesterday.

The sergeant couldn't help much. For one thing, nobody seems to where the bride and bridegroom are.

Mr. Chenery's daughter was a pupil at the Walnut Lane School, in Germantown, one of the most fashionable finishing schools in Pennsylvania.

She is now the wife of Dayton B. Skadden, 2rd. He is twenty-one, the son of Washington society man, and a senior at the Wharton School of Finance, of the University of Pennsylvania.

Accompanied by Herbert Stoddard, 3rd, of New York, a classmate of Skadden, the couple visited City Hall yesterday, obtained a marriage license, and went to Holy Trinity Church, where Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins performed the ceremony.

The church, on Rittenhouse square, is the most fashionable in Philadelphia.

From the church the couple went to Skadden's room, at No. 2216 Chestnut street, and after two hours there went away and have not been seen since.

"I do not know the boy—didn't know he was a friend of my daughter, in fact," the elder Chenery said today.

Horace Chenery, the father of Skadden's bride, is an insurance man with an office at No. 120 Water street. His home is at Concord.

CLOUDBURST FLOODS RIVER; CITY CUT OFF

Fort Worth, Tex., May 9.—With the Trinity River at a flood stage of 25 feet, this city was waterbound today. Blocks of houses were inundated and street car traffic was suspended. The city was again without a water supply as the pumping plants have been flooded. A railroad employe was drowned at Cleburne and a Mexican woman was killed at Thurber. A cloudburst west of here caused the flood.

TWO KILLED, 3 INJURED IN GASOLINE EXPLOSION

Buffalo, May 9.—Two men dead and three injured is the toll of a gasoline explosion in the boiler room of the wholesale millinery establishment of Strobig, Hoeger & Co. here. The dead are William Price and John Stuber.

BATTLE ON FRONTIER OF ULSTER

Constabulary and Irish Republican Soldiers Engage at Clady

By International News Service.

Belfast, May 9.—Heavy fighting has broken out between Ulster constabulary and detachments of the Irish Republican army along the Ulster frontier, said advices received here.

One outbreak was reported from Strabane. A violent battle was said to be in progress near Clady between Orangemen and special policemen on one side and Republicans on the other.

There have been continuous outbreaks of violence in Ulster since the armistice was effected at Dublin last week. The armistice was not to cover any part of Ulster, as it was signed only by representatives of the Irish Free State army and the Republican army.

London, May 9.—Sir James Craig, Premier of the Ulster Government, conferred today with Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill and Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland. The purpose is believed to be connected with efforts of the Irish Free State factions to bring about peace.

RUSSIAN EX-PRINCESS SENTENCED TO 5 YEARS

Moscow, May 9 (By the Associated Press.)—The former Princess Gagarin has been sentenced to five years' imprisonment by a Soviet court here because, while an agent of the Cheka or government police, she acted as adviser to the Most Rev. Eli Tikhon, Patriarch of Russia, who is shortly to go on trial charged with obstructing the requisitioning of church treasures by the government. According to Russian newspapermen, Mme. Brusiloff, daughter-in-law of General Brusiloff, was the woman sentenced to death along with eight priests and two laymen.

GEORGE AND MARY ARE WELCOMED TO BRUSSELS

Brussels, May 9.—The Belgian capital is in gala attire in honor of King George and Queen Mary of England. Holiday crowds filled the streets, many participants carrying small British flags. A reception was given this afternoon, attended by Henry F. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Belgium and other diplomats and members of the British colony.

Later in the day the English King and Queen visited points of interest, guided by King Albert and Queen Elizabeth. A state dinner will be given tonight.

DEFENDS PAY SLASH FOR PACIFIC MILLS

North Andover, May 9.—Speaking before the Massachusetts Clerical Association here, F. B. Blanchard of the Pacific Mills sought to justify the pay cut for mill workers.

While not denying that a considerable reduction had been made, he said, the Pacific Mills, and that they could operate for four years without a wage cut, he said such operation would prove ruinous.

COUNSEL ACTS TO OBTAIN NEW ROLLINS TRIAL

Another move to secure a new trial for George Rollins, convicted in 1918 of the murder of Ordway Hall, A. & P. store manager, shot to death in a holdup, was made today when counsel for Rollins, Major Thomas L. Walsh, brother of United States Senator David I. Walsh, appeared at the State House to plead for a new law governing the granting of new trials.

He appeared before the House Committee on Rules, urging a change in the present law which requires that a motion for a new trial must be filed within one year of the date of conviction. The change was favored, he said, by Chief Justice Arthur P. Rugg of the Supreme Court and District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien.

"The time limit," said Attorney Walsh, "should be done away with."

If the proposed change became a law through legislative action it would be the means of granting Rollins a new trial. A year ago, three years after his conviction, Jesse Murphy, confined in the Eastern Penitentiary, made a confession exonerating Rollins from blame in the Hall killing.

Attorney Walsh seeks a new trial for his client on the grounds that this confession is "new evidence."

RUSSIAN GEMS SHIP IS TO BE SUED

Civil action against the American steamship Muskegan, on board of which was thousands of dollars' worth of jewelry said to have been brought to this country from Soviet Russia, is to be filed by Assistant United States Attorney Charles F. Curtis for the Federal government, Mr. Curtis' contemplated action is to be taken on the ground that the jewelry did not appear on the ship's manifest.

Mr. Curtis said today that this action would be taken as soon as an inventory is made of the jewelry.

Attorney Curtis does not contemplate any criminal action against Captain Harry Waach, as the goods were not landed in this country.

MRS. HUBBARD PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO MURDER

Mrs. Carrie N. Hubbard, charged with the murder of her husband, William B. Hubbard, "the Germicide King," was arraigned before Judge Fosdick today. Through Attorney John P. Feeney she pleaded not guilty. Attorney Feeney obtained the right to file special pleas at a future dates. Mrs. Hubbard was taken back to the Charles street jail.

HUGHES IS ASKED TO ACCOUNT

Senator Wants to Know What Became of $187,000,000 Given to Envoy

By Universal Service.

Washington, May 9.—Formal demand for an accounting by Boris Bakhmeteff of the $187,000,000 he received from the United States Treasury during the brief periods of his service as Russian ambassador was made by Senator Borah, the pseudo ambassador's nemesis.

Senator Borah made his demand in a series of questions to Secretary of State Hughes, which he read in the Senate. He explained that no other means of getting any response from Bakhmeteff was open to him because of the protection extended to Bakhmeteff by Secretary of State Hughes.

The questions, twenty in number, went into the entire history of Bakhmeteff's receipt of the $187,000,000 and his disposition of the sum. They demanded information as to how much of the money had been expended, whether any was ever returned to the Treasury, and what amount, if any, was expended for the benefit of the Kerensky Government of Russia, which Bakhmeteff claimed to represent.

The Senator also made inquiry of the Secretary of State as to whether or not Bakhmeteff ever possessed any credentials entitling him to represent the Russian Provisional Government. Copies of such credentials, if they exist in the State Department, were requested.

A full and complete statement of all conversations had in this country by Bakhmeteff and their final disposition and adjustment was also demanded. Particular reference is made in the questions to a transaction in powder, which Bakhmeteff is supposed to have sold to the British government.

The State Department is also requested to advise the Senate how much money has been advanced to Bakhmeteff by the Treasury Department to pay his expenses in maintaining himself and his staff in the Russian Embassy, and how much was given to him after the State Department was advised by Ambassador Francis that the Kerensky government had fallen.

Senator Borah said:

"In view of the fact that the Secretary of State seems to think it proper that the examination go through the State Department and that the responses of Bakhmeteff be transmitted to the Senate, I know of no way to secure the details except to ask the Secretary of State to take into consideration some suggestions, which I am about to make, and see if the examination conducted in this way will be satisfactory to the Secretary of State and to the Senate.

"I dislike to conduct this kind of examination, but if it is possible for me to ascertain what has become of the $187,000,000 which was loaned to Bakhmeteff I am going to do it.

Senators Flay Proposed Big Steel Merger

Washington, May 9 (By International News Service).—The proposed merger of seven of the largest independent iron and steel corporations which are said to be capable of a total annual production of 16,000,000 tons of steel, served today to fan the opposition in the Senate to the "protective" iron and steel rates of the pending McCumber tariff bill.

Senator LaFollette, Republican, of Wisconsin, member of the Senate Finance Committee, said it was his intention to press for early action upon his resolution calling upon Attorney-General Daugherty and the Federal Trade Commission for information regarding what steps they have taken or propose to take to "ascertain the purpose and probable effect of the proposed merger."

"The proposed steel combine is doubtless a move to 'corner' the steel market completely," said La Follette. "It would wipe out seven of the largest steel industries, merge them in a single combination and lessen or destroy entirely whatever competition the United States Steel Corporation has or might have, and this at a time when the steel industries are clamoring for a 'protective tariff on their products.'"

Society Women of London Sacrifice Toes for Fashion

London, May 9.—A little toe is a small concern where fashion is concerned, it was revealed today by the Daily Express.

This newspaper states that many fashionable society women are having their small toes removed so that they can wear the new styled shoes, which are long, very narrow and pointed.

WIFE OF BISHOP BABCOCK DIES FROM SHOCK

Mrs. Samuel G. Babcock, wife of Suffragan Bishop Babcock, at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Death was the result of an appendicitis shock suffered on Saturday. So severe was it her life was despaired of from the start. But she was not removed from her home at No. 62 Chestnut street until last night, when a second shock was suffered. Then she was hurried to Phillips House, at the hospital. She was unconscious almost continually up to her death.

Mrs. Babcock suffered a slight shock five years ago. On Saturday she was found unconscious by the Bishop at the head of the front stairs of their home. Physicians were called but offered little hope for Mrs. Babcock's recovery. On Sunday she rallied slightly. Yesterday she grew worse and following the new shock death was but a matter of hours. She was sixty-seven years old.

IRISH MERCHANT FLEET TO SEEK BRITISH TRADE

Washington, May 9 (By International News Service).—An Irish merchant marine fleet, the first in history, is being made ready for operation to war on British trade and to carry out the boycott on all British shipping lines, declared the National Convention of the American Association for the Recognition of Ireland.

The first ship of the fleet, Irish-owned and Irish-directed, will make its maiden voyage from New York June 1, carrying the Irish tri-color and the American flag, it was announced here today.

The first freighter of the new line will sail within ten days. All of the crews are to be Irish-American.

It is estimated that the trade between the United States and Ireland, which amounts to about $40,000,000 worth of exports from the United States and $30,000,000 worth of imports of Irish products to the United States last year, will be trebled through the operation of the new fleet.

A drive will be made to attract American tourists to the Emerald Isle, and special tourist trips are being arranged by the United Irish lines which will direct the fleet. The project is understood to have the indorsement of the Government of the Irish Free State, and supporters of the Irish Republic in the United States are subscribing funds to finance the venture.

PRICES IN 3 MONTHS DROP OVER 4 P. C.

Washington, May 9.—Cost of living dropped 4.2 per cent. during the first three months of 1922, Department of Labor estimates. The decrease since the post-war peak in June, 1922, is 22.9 per cent. The general level of cost of living is still 66.9 per cent. above pre-war days. Food is 58.7 per cent. above, clothing 75.5, housing 60.9, fuel and light 75.8, furniture 106.2, miscellaneous 103.3.

BANDIT CHIEF'S TRAIL LOST BY POLICE

Fred Tartaglia, leader of the safe-blowing bandits captured near Wilmington, is still at large despite his daring return on two occasions to the headquarters of the gang and the fact that State and municipal police are scouring every likely locality.

Search for Sylvanus Cobb, brother of Ralph Cobb, one of the gang now under arrest, has also proved futile. When these two men are in custody police believe they will be able to clear up more than a score of robberies that have hitherto been unsolved.

ABANDON MURDER THEORY.

Winchester police have abandoned the theory that the gang is implicated in the murder of Ralph Brewster, Boston & Maine railroad agent at Winchester. Brewster was shot by a bullet from a .32 automatic revolver and a similar gun was found in the raid on the bandit's headquarters. This gun has been identified by Grace Gavin, a rooming house, of No 61A Cross street, Somerville, as having been stolen from his establishment last Friday.

John McKenzie, proprietor of a Winchester bowling alley, who saw a mysterious stranger in Winchester the night Brewster was murdered, failed to identify either of the three men under arrest.

McLaughlin and Cappello, captured in the Wilmington raid and Ralph Cobb, arrested later, were identified by Policeman Charles Anderson of the Court Square Station as having been seen hanging around Rowe's wharf the night the safe was stolen from Harry's Lunch a few yards away.

ON BANDIT CHIEF'S TRAIL

Several times police believed they were closing in on Tartaglia. The trail has led to the water front and the registry of all outward-bound vessels is being closely scrutinized in case the missing bandit attempted to ship on a freighter to some foreign port.

Search is being continued in the neighborhood of the gang's headquarters for a hidden cache of loot from the scores of places which have been reported broken into. While several hundred dollars worth of jewelry, clothing and watches has been recovered it is thought that the gang must have some hiding place where the more valuable articles are secreted.

MALDEN LOOT IDENTIFIED

Three burglaries in Malden on the night of May 4 have been laid at the door of the Wilmington bandits as the articles stolen, taken from the tailor shop of Louis Binder, and Kelly's Boulevard and Mc-Grath's drug stores, was discovered in the stone house at Wilmington by two police inspectors from Malden.

Thirty-five suits of men's clothes were taken from the tailor shop.

In all $1,500 worth of loot was taken from the three Malden stores.

An attempt was made to remove the safe in Kelly's drug store, but it proved too heavy for the burglars.

WATCHING SUSPECTS' HOMES.

While the Winchester and State police are following leads in Revere, Lynn and other cities, the East Boston officers kept watch around the homes and hiding places of the bandit gang in their section.

Captain Hickey stated that he would spare no effort to catch the men and "will use the entire station force, if necessary," to round them up.

The two men are regarded as the most dangerous of the gun gang and will shoot on sight. Sylvanus Cobb is suffering from a broken jaw, according to the police, who say that the man was bleeding profusely when hit by an officer in Wilmington. He fell to the floor, playing "possum" and the officers thought he was unconscious. When they gave chase to the rest of the gunmen he made his getaway.

PROBE INTO WAR CRAFT BLOCKED FOR A WEEK

Washington, May 9.—Passage through the House of the Johnson-Woodruff resolution for an investigation of fraud and graft in war contracts has been blocked by House leaders for a week, it became evident today.

The House Republican steering committee has set up the business of the House until next Saturday and no provision has been made for time to consider the investigation resolution.

Chairman Campbell of the House Rules Committee, today had in his pocket, a special rule making the resolution in order in the House as a privileged matter, but he is waiting on the steering committee to consent to its consideration.

With determined protests from many Republican members against the resolution he does not wish to press the issue on his own initiative.

Republican leader Mondell said today that there were many important matters pressing before the House, with members demanding action, and attention was being given to the necessary legislation.

ASKED GIRL TO OBTAIN $1,000

ter's telephone bills painfully with ardent wire wooing from long distances to say nothing of a hundred or more ardent telegrams sent "collect."

This was charged today by friends of the Culberson family, in discussing allegations of the repulsed British war hero that detectives employed by the senior Senator from Texas attempted to spirit him out of the country by way of Boston. It was this attempted financial arrangement that caused the girl's parents to regard Robertson in the light of an adventurer, they say.

Chesby W. Jurney, Senator Culberson's secretary, was at the Hotel Pennsylvania for a time during the day and was reported to have talked with Robertson. The latter refused to deny he had seen Mr. Jurney.

In Washington the announcement that Robertson has decided to bring his case to the British embassy caused a distinct stir in diplomatic and official circles. It took the Senate by storm. Cloakroom gatherings found discussion centering on the Robertson-Culberson affair, and completely ignoring matters of legislation.

EMBASSY TO PROBE

And the British embassy, which hasn't had a thrill since the arrival of the last shipload of Scotch, has seized upon the little affair of a heart as a choice and welcome bit of diversion that must be made the most of.

They are awaiting the arrival of Robertson with all of the pleasant anticipation they display at times when they believe the United States is going to help them out a bit in Europe. Mr. Robertson will be received with open arms.

Mr. Petterson, the secretary, has already inquired into the matter, and will make the necessary investigation personally when Robertson puts the case before him.

"Will we inquire into the case?" he said. "My word, you bet we will. Jolly affair, quite unusual, but ripping, altogether ripping."

GIRL IN SECLUSION.

And, this is the sum total of comment.

Senator Culberson has denied himself to all callers unless it is arrest in advance that the Robertson case is not to be discussed. Mrs. Culberson is prostrated because of the publicity. And their pretty daughter, Mary, whom Robertson claims to have wooed and won is incommunicado. She is not "at home," her parents declare, and they refuse to say where she is.

The government so far, has no official record touching the case, or the charge that detectives representing Culberson kidnaped Robertson and attempted to force him to leave the country.

Following his release from the Concord Reformatory, where he was held in custody for violation of his parole, Salvatore Perlotta, who lives in the West End, was rearrested by Deputy U. S. Marshal Joseph Quinn on a Federal bench warrant for alleged violation of the narcotic law.

Altogether Ripping, Says Embassy of "Kidnaping"

When asked whether the British Embassy will inquire into the alleged kidnaping of Alexander Robertson, British war veteran, by agents of Senator Culberson, Secretary Peterson of the British Embassy at Washington replied:

"Will we inquire into the case? My word, you bet we will. Jolly affair, quite unusual, but ripping, altogether ripping."

RUM-RUNNING ON INCREASE

Springfield, Vt., May 9.—Liquor smuggling from the province of Quebec into Vermont is on the increase and the inflow this Summer will be great unless every smuggler caught has the maximum sentence imposed, Rev. Clement G. Clarke, head of the Vermont Anti-Saloon League, told delegates to the State Congregational conference, which opened here today.

Clerical and lay delegates from 250 churches in the State were in attendance.

Declaring that a careful investigation of the rum-running business over the Canadian border had shown that "we have under-estimated, not over-estimated, the amount of incoming liquor," Rev. Mr. Clarke, who is pastor of the First Congregational church here, asserted that prison sentences must be imposed on smugglers as fines would not stop smuggling.

"The smuggling business," he said, "is too profitable to feel the handicap of an occasional fine."

"What do you think of the calm proposal of the Premier of Quebec, who, claiming a profit of four millions a year and admitting that 54 per cent. of the liquor was sold to people outside the province, suggests that the Government should devote two millions of this to education, one million to good roads and the other million toward liquidating the school debt?

"He calculated that in twenty years the liquor traffic would wipe out the entire provincial indebtedness.

"Stop the smuggling from Quebec into Vermont with light sentences and you will interrupt this little plan of our benevolent neighbor."

COAL MINE BLAST KILLS 6 HORSES

Pittsburgh, May 9.—A stable owned by the Warwick Coal Company near Fredericktown, Greene county, was blown up today, and six horses were killed.

The magazine of the Fredericktown Coal Company was broken into during the night, and a box of dynamite containing 150 sticks stolen from the store of twenty tons.

State policemen with bloodhounds fro Fairmont, W. Va., scoured the country in the vicinity of the explosion.

pany, took $1,700 belonging to the company.

"The charge and my arrest is merely a wicked piece of spite work," declared Mr. Paul today. "There is not and never has been any basis for it."

He said he separated from Mrs. Paul last Fall.

Mrs. Paul and her mother, Mrs. Lydia E. Thomas, are the sole stockholders of the Machine Screw Company, he said. "As soon as I decided to resign I engaged the Keystone Auditing Company to make a thorough audit of the books. Everything was found in good order, and I settled up my connection with the concern and left.

"Later—I don't know when, for the whole matter has struck me like a bolt from the blue sky—Mrs. Paul appears to have had another audit made.

"When a man thinks enough of a woman to marry her, naturally he wants to protect her. I wanted that more than anything else. I begged my wife not to drag the matter into the glare of divorce court publicity, and offered if she would release me from all claims to allow the divorce to go through without contest.

"But she would not. In self-protection I filed a suit for $25,000 against Crawford for alienation of my wife's affection. I was more than willing to drop this suit, if the other parties would agree to my terms, designed to keep the matter quiet.

"Instead the whole affair became public, through no fault of mine. This is the first time I have opened my lips on the subject for publication.

"From now on I am going to fight."

The married life of the Pauls began in 1910, and was Mrs. Paul's second marriage. She answered her first husband. In her suit for divorce she charges her husband with cruel and abusive treatment.

Mr. Crawford, who is well known in Watertown and Newton, where he is prominent in political circles, has filed suit for divorce against Estelle M. Crawford, also charging cruelty and abuse.

Mrs. Paul, now living in Allston, said today she knew nothing about the charge against her husband and still less of his financial affairs. "I do not even know where he is living" she added.

Lewiston, Me., May 8.—Charged with "irregular conduct" by the Bates College faculty, George Dunn of Bidford was suspended and Barrows Hinds of Gardner, Edward Dagnine of Wakefield, Mass., and John L. Miller of Winthrop, Mass., were expelled, according to announcement just made. Dagnine was prominent in athletics. All were sophomores.

HENRY FORD OFFERS YOUNG DODGE A JOB

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 9.—Henry Ford has offered John Duval Dodge, probationer from Kalamazoo Circuit Court, a job in his Detroit factory, it became known. The young millionaire was placed on probation Saturday for one year for possessing and transporting liquor, and one of the provisions is that he go to work.

ATTACKS MADE ON THREE GIRLS

Hunts Started for "Slasher," "Hugger" and "Wild Man" Who Escaped

Searches for prowlers who attacked girls and young women are on in three New England cities and towns today.

An eight-year-old school girl was waylaid and badly cut by an assailant of the "Jack the Slasher" type in Reeds Ferry, N. H.; a young woman was seized and knocked down by a "Hugger" in Lynn, while a barefoot wild man made an attack on a young high school girl in West Boxford.

All of the attackers escaped, and squads of police who went out to search for them were joined by indignant citizens who had been aroused by the atrocities.

SLASHES SCHOOL GIRL

In Reeds Ferry little Helen Waite, eight years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Waite, was walking along a country road on her way home from school, when a neatly-dressed stranger drove up in an automobile and offered her and her two girl companions some candy.

Suspicious of his attentions, the girls refused. He pressed his attentions on them, and tried to induce them to go for a ride with him. They persisted in their refusals, and finally turned to leave him.

As they did so, he seized Helen by the arm, dragged her across the road and into a clump of bushes and underbrush, where he drew a knife. The other girls fled in terror, and as they disappeared from sight he slashed the girl severely on the neck.

She fought desperately, and during the struggle her clothing was partially torn from her body. She was bruised and hurt, but she continued to struggle, until she managed to break away and escape.

The man pursued her for a few yards, then got in his automobile and drove away. Police and other searchers could find no trace of him today.

ATTACKED BY WILD MAN.

Jennie Doucette, on her way to the high school at West Boxford, was attacked without warning by a ragged, shoeless wild man who leaped from the woods on a lonely road and threw her to the ground.

The girl fought furiously, biting and striking at her assailant, and finally managed to make her escape, with bruises about her neck and shoulders, her clothing torn, and one shoe lost.

From the meagre description given of the man, it is thought he is a demented wanderer who has been seen in that neighborhood recently.

VICTIM OF "HUGGER."

The third encounter came in Lynn, when an unidentified "hugger" crept up behind nineteen-year-old Stella Gilhooley, of No. 130 Fayette street, and threw his arms about her neck.

She screamed and broke away, whereupon the man struck her a violent blow on the jaw with his fist. She fell to the pavement, crying for help, and the man, apparently afraid that her cries would arouse the neighborhood—the attack took place on the street near her home—fled down the street and vanished in the darkness.

A squad of police was instantly dispatched to the scene, while neighbors turned out to help in the search. The only description Miss Gilhooley could give of her assailant was that he was a "big, burly ruffian."

JAP IS ACQUITTED OF WOMAN'S CHARGE

Newark, N. J., May 9.—A jury in West Orange police court today acquitted Taisan Tsuji of a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Amelia Cartheuser. Tsuji, a Japanese newspaper man, testified that he had been tricked into making a confession of the attack on the pretence that he would be protecting the good name of a woman and that he had been promised a speedy release if he signed the confession. The police denied Tsuji's allegations.

DOCTOR ENDS HIS LIFE WHEN HIPPODROME GIRL JILTS HIM

SUICIDE SETTING IS TRAGIC

Bright Light Shines on Grief-Lined Face; Body in Black Robe

New York, May 9.—A bright electric light shining full upon the upturned face of a body wrapped in a black bath robe, illumined the story of the ending of the love of Dr. Alfred H. Riedel—death by poison.

Forty-nine years old, an eminent eye specialist and a visiting surgeon for the Knapp Memorial Institute, Dr. Riedel had a large practice.

He maintained a three-room suite in Hotel Markwell, the first being an office, the second a reception room and the third a bedroom.

Patience who failed to get a response caused the discovery of the body by William R. Green, proprietor of the hotel, who also told the reason for the action of the specialist in taking his own life.

LOVED CHORUS GIRL.

A chorus girl—in off time a skating expert at the Hippodrome—was the object of the specialist's affections. Green said that the doctor loved the woman deeply and that when he discovered several months ago that she was going out with other men he lapsed into dejection from which nothing could arouse him.

Frequently, Green said, he threatened to kill himself, but before reaching this point the specialist in every way attempted to keep the girl he loved back to him. Green said the doctor even cabled the young woman a paternal letter, telling them of their daughter's conduct.

Failing to bring the skating girl back to him, Dr. Riedel, who was separated from his wife, whose residence is in Scranton, apparently planned his death with great care.

In his frenzy threat to kill himself, the doctor said that if he did he would leave a letter which would explain everything. Those who searched among his effects expected to find the letter, but according to Green, the only letter found was a year old and had no bearing on the doctor's act.

One significant thing was discovered among his effects—a photograph showing a young woman in an ice skating costume. The picture bore a caption in handwriting—a name, followed by the words "of the Charlotte Company." Mr. Green refused to divulge the name of the pretty girl for whom the physician died.

Those who saw the body in bed said that the tragic picture presented by the dead man's features, would long remain in memory. Propped up against a pillow, with the electric light shining upon the pallid face, and with the black bath robe giving a funeral tinge to the ensemble, those who looked at it said that in dying the physician had put epitome his grief—the deep lines in his face showing the anguish he endured in the months while he struggled to bring the woman back to him—and failed.

$10,000 BAIL FOR TRIO HELD AS CAR LOOTERS

Fred Wilson of No. 18 Linden street, Somerville, John P. Burns of No. 123 Austin street, Cambridge, and John Lellis of No. 19 Hunting street, Cambridge, were held in $10,000 each for grand larceny by Judge Prescott Keyes in Concord District Court on charges of breaking and entering. It is alleged that the trio men broke into Boston & Maine railroad freight cars at South Acton.

North End Minister Who Is Refused Papers as Citizen

BLAME UNKNOWN FOE

Rev. Salvatore Giambarresi, pastor of the Italian Methodist Episcopal Church, North End, and his wife. The minister was denied his final citizenship papers in the Federal Court, and says it is due to a "terrible mistake" or the work of an unknown enemy.

SYRIA IS FREE, FEISAL SAYS TO GENOA

Genoa, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—Representatives of King Feisal of the Irak region (Mesopotamia) presented to the Economic Conference today a memorandum claiming the independence of Syria and Lebanon and protesting against the French occupation.

The Syrians maintain that France, under the pretext of a mandate, is trying to colonize Syria and that the same thing is being done by England in Mesopotamia and Palestine.

The mandate declares the Syrians are capable of governing themselves.

Bagdad, May 9.—King Feisal has refused to sign terms presented to him by the British High Commissioner, intended to prohibit demonstrations in favor of abolishing the British mandate over Mesopotamia.

He has decreed the organization of a constitutional assembly, which is intended to have final say in the management of the country's affairs, both internal and external.

London, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—An agreement has been reached between the British government as the mandatory power in Palestine, and the United States, concerning the rights and protection of Americans in the Holyland, says the Central News.

The agreement provides that the rights of Americans and the protection they shall be accorded shall be the same as those of nationals of member countries of the League of Nations.

Vatican Asks for Return of Property

Genoa, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—Monsignor Pizzardo, undersecretary of state for ecclesiastic affairs at the Vatican, arrived in Genoa today as the bearer of a memorandum from the Holy See to the conference here. The memorandum asks the return by Russia of properties which belonged to the Catholic Church.

FEAR 2 PROVIDENCE BOYS ARE DROWNED

Providence, May 9.—Armand Desrosiers and George Swenson, two Providence boys, are believed to have lost their lives by the overturning of their canoe in Narragansett Bay.

PASTOR WILL FIGHT FOR CITIZENSHIP

Declaring that he has been prevented from securing citizenship in the United States, either through a "terrible mistake" or through the deliberate malice of some unknown enemy, the Rev. Salvatore Giambarresi, pastor of the Italian Methodist Episcopal Church in the North End, has hired counsel and will fight the case to a finish.

When the minister appeared before Judge Morton in the Federal Court to secure his final citizenship papers, the papers were refused on the grounds that he had secured exemption from the draft as an alien.

"That is not so at all," he declared to a Boston American reporter. "I had taken the pastorate of this church shortly before I appeared before the draft board, and I asked exemption as a minister. I did not say I was an alien, and I did not fear to go to the war. I considered myself an American then, and I do now."

WAS WILLING TO SERVE.

The Rev. Mr. Giambarresi was accompanied to the draft board by the Rev. A. F. Remer, superintendent of the Boston Extension of the Church Society of the M. E. Church. At that time he was unable to read or write English, and the papers put before him were, of course, illegible to him.

He told the Rev. Mr. Remer that he had gone to the Italian Church to replace a former minister who had enlisted. He was unmarried and willing to serve, he said, but the 500 parishioners of the church had had great difficulty in replacing their former pastor, and did not wish to have to do it again. He felt that his duty was with his church, he said, and told the Rev. Mr. Remer so.

"Consequently, when they showed me where to make no mark on the papers, I supposed it was to signify that I asked exemption because I was a pastor," he said. "The Rev. Mr. Remer seemed satisfied this was the case, also. Even last week, when I went to the naturalization authorities in the Old South Building, they told me to come down today and I would get them up all right. They seemed to think there was no hitch

KNOWS OF NO ENEMIES.

"And yet the record, as produced in court, shows that I claimed to be an alien. It is not true. But it is the record. Someone had made a terrible mistake, or else some enemy has tried to, as you say, 'frame' me. I do not know who could have done that. I have no enemies, as far as I know."

The minister has employed Attorney Frederick Fuller to fight the case. The Rev. Mr. Remer also says he will make an effort to rectify matters.

The Rev. Mr. Giambarresi has been in America for some twelve years. Shortly after his appearance before the draft board he was married to Miss Anna D. Porter, of Chicago, a college graduate and an American citizen. He then entered the Boston University School of Religious Education, where he will graduate next year. Ever since their marriage, Mrs. Giambarresi has spent an hour daily teaching her husband English, so that he is now perfectly conversant with that language.

WIFE IS INDIGNANT.

She is indignant at the "injustice" which she says has been done her husband. "My husband is one of the most patriotic men in Boston," she said. "He could hardly speak English at that time. If he answered yes when asked if he claimed exemption because he was an alien, it was through a misunderstanding."

The church of which the Rev. Mr. Giambarresi is pastor is located at No. 335 Hanover street, North End. He conducts three services a week there, gives daily to classes at Boston University, and spends much of his time studying and acquiring himself with the English language.

During the war he subscribed to Liberty Bonds and to the Red Cross as lavishly as he was able, and was active in war work among the Italians of the North End.

DOROTHY CLARK'S LAWYER FIGHTS

By Universal Service.

San Diego, Cal., May 9.—"Speaking both for Mrs. Clark and for Mrs. Elms," said J. K. Stickney, attorney for the women, here, "I can affirm that the case against Herbert Rawlinson will be fought to a conclusion.

"The demurrer asks dismissal of the case on the ground that the complaint was delayed by the statute of limitations. Under the laws of California, suit for attack must be brought within one year after the offense is committed."

The fact that Dorothy was a minor carries her outside the scope of the limitations statute, the attorney stated. He confidently predicted the demurrer would be disallowed.

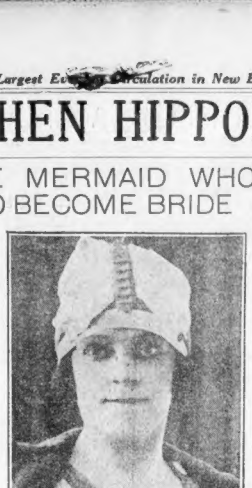
STAGE MERMAID WHO IS TO BECOME BRIDE



Roxbury girl whose marriage to her glass tank swimming partner is to occur on Saturday. It is her third venture into matrimony.

MRS. HELEN B. CASWELL.

TANK ROMANCE TO RESULT IN WEDDING

A romance which began under water in a glass tank, will result Saturday evening in the marriage of Mrs. Helen B. Caswell, twenty-eight years old, of No. 21 Benton street, Roxbury, and Eugene Fielding, forty years old, of No. 76 Sterling street, the same district.

The wedding of the swimming girl and the diving man will be the third venture of both into matrimony.

Mrs. Caswell and Fielding were playing in a New York vaudeville theatre when they first met, ten months ago.

Mrs. Caswell needed a partner for her act, and Fielding volunteered to take the place of the regular principal. He went into the tank with the stage mermaid.

The various exhibitions given under water by the pair, marked the beginning of the romance.

Mrs. Caswell married Joseph Devine of Dover, N. H., twelve years ago. She divorced him in 1918, and a year later married John Caswell of Bangor, Me. The latter died in 1920. She has a three-year-old child.

Fielding married Sarah Blake of Newburyport seventeen years ago, but received a divorce from her five years later. His second venture into matrimony was in 1911. The marriage was annualled in 1922.

3 MORE BREAKS CHARGED TO "LONE WOLF"

Neeley Johnson, the twenty-two-yearold negro who has identified himself as "the Lone Wolf" who has been prowling off with the goods and chattels of suburban householders, was arraigned in Brookline Court today on three new charges.

Incidentally the "lone" one disclosed that he was not alone at all, but had an accomplice, who, like himself, is an ex-sailor.

Johnson pleaded guilty to all the complaints preferred against him and was held in $4,000 for the Grand Jury. While the Grand Jury comes in next month it is doubtful that he will be tried before September.

While the Brookline complaints were being read, Cambridge police appeared and in the name of their city put in a claim to Neeley, whom they accuse of a dozen breaks in their terrorizing of the most exclusive residential section.

The new charges against Johnson by the Brookline police were: Breaking and entering at the home of Curt J. Kaffenburh, No. 25 Sewell avenue, Brookline, on March 25, and the theft of articles worth $1,650; breaking and entering at the home of George B. Blake, No. 29 Colchester street, Brookline, April 25, and an attempt to steal and carrying a loaded revolver while committing crime.

Johnson was arrested last Sunday night in Brookline, following a break at the home of Dr. George K. Sabine, No. 30 Irving street.

Police immediately decided that they had, in his person, the author of a score of breaks in Cambridge, the Newtons and Brookline. This theory was vindicated by the negro, except that he explained he was not a "lone wolf" but had a running mate.

Police of Brookline have the name of Johnson's accomplice and the man will be arrested, it is expected, before final disposition of "the Lone Wolf's" case.

Johnson was arraigned yesterday on the charge of breaking into Dr. Sabine's house and still probably he may appear in the neighboring district courts as the days go on and new complaints against him come to light.

He admitted, according to the police, that he broke into the Kaffenburth house, and stole $1,650 worth of goods, including a platinum and diamond ring worth $1,500. He did not confess his job at the Blake home on Colchester street because he and his associates were scared off by a maid.

JAPAN RECOGNIZES U. S. CERTIFICATES

Tokio, May 9.—Charles B. Warren, the American Ambassador, has informed Japan to recognize the American Shipping Bureau's load line certificates for American vessels in Japanese ports. Since the enforcement of the new Japanese regulations, February 1, American ships have been compelled to undergo Japanese survey owing to non-recognition of the bureau's certificates.

"WIFE BROKER" ACCUSED OF $850 THEFT

Uxbridge, May 9.—Tony Chiura, wife broker, was in District Court today to tell the judge how come he accepted $850 from Steve Murak for one better half, preferably blonde, and failed to deliver.

Miss Louise Krawczyk and Charles Grabowski of Woonsocket, R. I., were arraigned along with Tony, the technical charge being larceny.

Murak, who speaks broken English, and admits he is not the type to fascinate the kind of young woman he would like to marry, retained Chiura when he enquired of "catching a wife" for himself. He says the $850 was for a fee to Tony the broker, and for courting and wedding expenses. According to the police, Louise posed as the bride-to-be and got $150 for her share.

Testify to Loss of Thousands by Fraud in Stock Deals

ACCUSE TRIO

Mrs. Abbie F. Flagg, of Brookline, at left, and Bertha I. Cass, witnesses against former broker and two employes.

WOMEN CHARGE STOCK THEFT BY BROKERS

Wilfred Mulvena, a former Milk street stock broker, with two former employes, Edwin A. Mitchell and Dwight W. Berry, are on trial in the Superior Court before Judge Keating on indictments charging them with conspiracy to steal and with larceny of stocks and money totalling several thousand dollars in value.

Mrs. Abbie F. Flagg of Brookline, one of the complainants, said she had turned over nearly $34,000 in stocks and cash, for which she received nothing. She was followed to the stand by Katherine Gannon, Lucy H. Edgerly and Bertha I. Cass, who said they had turned over valuable stocks to exchange for other securities which were never delivered to them.

An indictment for conspiracy brought against William Dana, who not pressed by Assistant District Attorney Robert Homans.

SOMERVILLE MAN DEAD IN LAKE

Whether Edward J. Muldoon, whose body was found floating in Lake Quinsigamond, Worcester, met a violent death will be determined by Medical Examiner Frederick H. Baker at the Worcester City Hospital today.

Mr. Muldoon, thirty-two years old, whose mother and brother live at No. 24 Putnam street, Somerville, had been missing since April 21 from the Worcester State Hospital.

The victim's coat and trousers pockets were found filled with stones. Black and blue marks were on his face.

GRILL WOMAN IN SEARCH FOR FIREBUG

Questioned by State Police After Four Incendiary Blazes in West Roxbury House

Search for the firebug who made four attempts to burn a house at No. 116 Spring street, West Roxbury, and whose efforts hastened the death of one woman and imperilled the lives of fifteen other persons, is expected to result shortly in an arrest.

It has been learned that State Detective George F. Keyes has been assuming a woman who is believed to have knowledge of the affair. He is in charge of the investigation that is being made.

Occupants of the house gave a full description of the attempts at destroying the house to a reporter for the Boston American.

The woman who died was Mrs. John B. Sheehy, who, while in a precarious condition, suffering with pneumonia, inhaled quantities of heavy, black smoke that filled the house from the last incendiary blaze.

"MURDER," SAYS HUSBAND.

Mr. Sheehy told the American that his wife was as much the victim of a murder as if she had been shot down in cold blood, and that he would never rest until the firebug was in State prison.

The house at No. 116 Spring street is a rambling, two-family structure, with an ell in the rear. Mr. and Mrs. Sheehy, with their three children, one of them an infant, occupied one apartment in front, while the other is tenanted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dutton with five children. In the ell in the rear live Miss Alice Spring, a gray-haired woman whose only companions are three city wards, all girls.

Three mysterious fires had been found at various times in cartons in the cellar of the house.

The climax came last Thursday night, when the entire house was suddenly filled with thick, black smoke. Mr. Sheehy declared that he poured into the room where his wife lay gasping for breath, his child in his arms, and found the trained nurse coated with soot, the curtains turned black, and his wife struggling for air.

AUTO TIRES BURNED.

In Sheehy's cellar, it was found that burning paper or other material had been dropped on a pile of automobile tire inner tubes. These were close against the outer wall of the cellar, covered by the roof of an old barn coop.

The tubes in burning gave off a thick, greasy smoke, the inhalation of which, Mr. Sheehy claims, resulted in the death of his wife, a short time later.

The blaze itself was extinguished without serious damage to the house, but if the flames at any time had gained headway, the entire structure would have been destroyed in a short time. The door to the Sheehy cellar was open when the fire was discovered.

PLAN TO VINDICATE PASTOR WHO KILLED SELF

Mars Hill, Me., May 8.—Women in the parish of the Mars Hill Mountain church, where Rev. Frank Charles Carlton was driven to suicide by a girl's accusations that have now proven false, have met and united with the statement that the widow and fatherless child will be cared for financially for the remainder of their lives.

They will make efforts to vindicate the family name and make other amends. The Rev. Williams Snow spoke on the action of the District Conference of the Methodist Church, stating that the family will be provided for.

BOOTY LIMITED BY LENGTH OF THIEF'S ARM

San Francisco, May 9.—Jewelry valued at $12,000 was stolen from an exhibit maintained by Shreve & Co. in a hotel lobby. Five pieces of jewelry, all of diamonds set in platinum, were taken. The length of the thief's arm apparently limited the haul, as other jewelry in the case valued at more than $30,000 was not touched. The case had loosened and then removed a small glass section in the side of the case. He is believed to have worked for days at odd moments in loosening the pane.

TWO BANDITS ROB WINTHROP MAN; ESCAPE

Two bandits, brandishing pistols, stopped William D. Gifford of No. 153 Woodside Avenue, Winthrop, as he was walking along Essex street, Lynn, and robbed him of $12 in currency, following him with death if he resisted them. They escaped in the direction of Salem.

Bazaar in Synagogue

The bazaar of the Sisterhood of the Crawford street synagogue, in the vestry of the synagogue at No. 103 Crawford street, Roxbury, will be continued until Thursday evening. One of the features of the affair is the distribution of 10,000 Brazilian stamps.

DELEGATES AT K. OF C. ANNUAL CONVENTION

REPRESENTATIVES FROM COUNCILS ALL OVER THE STATE GATHER AT HOTEL SOMERSET

BELIEVED DEAD 3 YEARS, MAN REAPPEARS

Believed dead three years, Andrew Irving, former Ogdensburg (N. Y.) bank president, and father of Dr. Fred C. Irving, Boston surgeon, has appeared in New York city.

Thirty-six months ago the banker left his office. Efforts to find some trace of him failed. Now it has become known that action by the Ogdensburg National Bank against Dr. Irving, as executor, and Andrew Irving to recover on two notes given by the banker in 1918, have been settled out of court.

The former bank president has paid the notes in full, plus interest and costs.

NEW PLAYGROUND "NOT NEEDED" IN MATTAPAN

The Park Commissioner has turned down the site of the proposed playground, near Almont street, Mattapan, that was recommended by many improvement societies. The board finds that the playground on Norfolk street takes care of the present needs.

$1,000 FIRE IN BRIGHTON APARTMENT HOUSE

Fire was discovered in the first floor apartment of Colonel W. B. Cowan in the fashionable apartment house, the Three Fields, at No. 1184 Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, The building is owned by the Realty Trust Company. Damage amounted to $1,000.

FIREBUG BURNS $150,000 SHOE FACTORY

Georgetown, May 9.—A large shoe factory was destroyed, five families were forced to leave their dwellings, a tract of woodland was set ablaze and damage estimated at more than $150,000 was caused when fire swept through the plant of the Baker Shoe Company here.

Deputy Fire Chief Whitney of Haverhill declared after an investigation he was convinced the fire was incendiary.

The flames started in the shoe factory, a two-story wooden building, and spread rapidly. No one was in the place at the time, and by the time the alarm had been sounded the plant was enveloped by flames.

AID FROM HAVERHILL.

Georgetown firemen quickly called help from Haverhill, and a number of pieces of apparatus were sent from that city, while many volunteers joined with the firemen to aid in fighting the fire, which for a time threatened to reach alarming proportions.

Five dwellings were ignited. Their occupants hastily removed their furniture to the street, while neighbors helped the firemen work to prevent them from being destroyed. The buildings were finally saved, after an hour's work. All were more or less damaged.

A twist in the wind sent the sparks and burning shingles in another direction. Across a field to a tract of wooded country the wind carried them, dropping them among dry brush, and leaves. In a short time the woods were ablaze.

Several acres of the woodland were burned over, and at an early hour today the fire there had not been entirely extinguished.

The property was to have been taken over today by the Cass & Daniels Company, which had recently purchased it from the Baker concern.

BAY STATE VET DENIES HE SHOT HELPLESS FOE

North Adams, May 9.—Anthony Barbuto, former private of Company M, 104th Infantry of the Twenty-sixth, Yankee Division, who was mentioned in the Lieutenant-Colonel Duncan Major hearing before the Senate Committe on Military Affairs, as having killed a German soldier as the latter was in the act of surrendering, has denied the charge.

Are You For or Against Daylight Saving?

What do you think of daylight saving? Are you for it or against it?

Here are two Boston American readers expressing differing views. How do you feel? The Boston American wants the opinion of its readers. Send them to the Daylight Saving Editor, Boston American, Boston.

Brookline Writer Says Daylight Saving Works Hardships on All Housewives

Editor, Boston American:

I hope that the Boston American will ascertain the real attitude of the public on daylight saving.

Personally I am, and have been from the first, opposed to it, except as a War measure. As such there was perhaps sufficient reason for its introduction. Under peace conditions there are none.

Aside from the enormous inconvenience it imposes upon the housekeepers and housekeepers, adding two hours' work daily to the task of the mother of families, increasing the strain under which they labor, daylight saving, as I see it, is but another step in the "speeding up" of American life which is producing the rapid increase in insanity, the growing number of nervous breakdowns and the truly terrific amount of stomach trouble from which this nation suffers.

We have turned humanity in America into machine tenders and are doing the best we can to make machines out of the men and women of the land. American people do not get enough relaxation nor enough sleep. It is stupid to say that daylight-saving adds to their enjoyment. It does not.

In nine cases out of ten it simply means that the working man and woman gets up an hour earlier in the morning and goes to bed an hour later at night, and is on the go all the intervening time.

I sincerely hope that the Boston American will help to secure a sane view of this matter, and that the people of Massachusetts, at least, will repudiate the daylight-saving silliness.

BROOKLINE.

Daylight Law Reigned in Biblical Times and Should Now, Says Back Bay Man

Editor Boston American:

The only trouble with daylight saving is that we don't have it 365 days a year.

Persons who oppose it I think do so unconsciously through being unable to swing out of the routine of habit.

Daylight saving is sensible. The way persons live nowadays is NOT sensible. There should be as much eliminating of artificial lighting as possible. Soon glasses will be universal.

Back in Bible times persons lived by the sun. They got up with the sun, which is sensible, being the light provided to live by. There is no reason why the business world should go to work at 9 a. m. Business machinery should be humming an hour after daylight the year around, coming to a stop at the regulation eight hours later. Then people would have an enjoyable seige of daylight for pleasure daily. We would enjoy better health; there would be less nervousness and more mental relaxation. The stupid manmade laws which exist should be blasted into the dark regions where they belong. Sleep during darkness. Get up with the birds. Enjoy the glories of nature.

Daylight-saving—why its a blessing. We should extend it.

Very truly yours,

JEREMIAH J. JONES.

MILLIONS OFFERED TO CONVICT FOR OIL LAND

Jefferson City, Mo., May 9.—D. P. Hayes, a convict of negro and Indian blood, has received two offers, one purporting to be $2,000,000 and the other $1,500,000 for his oil interests, prison officials said today. He is serving three years for forgery. Hayes is owner of 160 acres of Mexican oil land.

MUD GEYSERS ERUPT FOR TWENTY MINUTES

El Centro, Cal., May 9.—A spectacular eruption of the mud geysers in Salt Sea, near here, sent mud, smoke and steam two hundred feet into the air, according to the report here today of a number of persons who witnessed the phenomenon. The eruption ran without warning and continued twenty minutes.

CARDINAL SENDS GREETING TO K. C.

More than four hundred delegates from all over the Bay State gathered at the Hotel Somerset today for the opening of the twenty-ninth annual convention of the Knights of Columbus, Massachusetts Council.

The convention began with mass in St. Cecilia's Church, Back Bay. Rev. Father Joseph P. Coppinger, permanent pastor of St. Augustine's Church, South Boston, acted as celebrant, and Rev. Dr. John J. McGarry, administrator of St. Cecilia's Church, as assistant.

The delegates then went to the hotel, where the formal opening of the business of the convention opened with the reading of the annual report of the State chaplain, Father Coppinger, who extended the greetings of Cardinal O'Connell to the delegates.

The remainder of the morning session was taken up with routine business and the reading of reports.

It was regarded as virtually assured that the old board of officers would be re-elected at this convention for the coming year.

Amnesty Pilgrims Again Rebuffed at the White House

Washington, May 9.—The women and children amnesty crusaders, seeking Presidential clemency for their relatives in federal prison for violation of wartime laws, made another sortie against the White House today, but again met rebuff. Neither President Harding nor Secretary Christian would see the pilgrims.

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO DAVISON

Locust Valley, N. Y., May 9.—Men and woman of International prominence in the world of Finance and society bowed with plain villagers in a common grief today at the bier of Henry P. Davison, financier, philanthropist and head of the American Red Cross during the World War, who died Saturday.

The little ivy-covered chapel of St. John's of Lattingtown, nestling among the flowering hills of this picturesque Long Island village, was crowded beyond all capacity. Many hundreds unable to gain admittance, stood silently outside.

A special train and automobiles conveyed many mourners from New York, carried them past apple trees in blossom, and acre after acre of velvety-green lawns of the estates of millionaires.

NOTED WOMEN INVITED TO INDIA FETE

Mlle. 'SHADY' JOKES HEARD BY SCIENTISTS

John V. Dittemore, a former director of the Christian Science Church who is seeking reinstatement through the courts, underwent a severe cross-examination at the hands of Judge Clifford P. Smith, counsel for the directors, during the hearing of his case before Judge Frederic Dodge.

Judge Smith attempted by his questions to show that Dittemore had caused dissension at the meetings of the church directors, and secured from him an admission that "shady" jokes and stories were not infrequently heard at the directors' meetings.

APOLOGIES FOR STORIES.

He prepared to give the attorney dates of such occurrences, and produced a slip of paper from his pocket, when Judge Smith halted him, intimating that he did not trust the authenticity of the memoranda. Mr. Dittemore said that he had always protested against the objectionable stories, and said that they usually ended in apologies.

Mr. Dittemore denied that Judge Smith had advised him not to try and be the whole board of directors, and that if he continued they would be obliged to remove him.

"Did you say to me that God had given you a mission to reform the Christian Science movement?" asked Judge Smith. "I never said any such thing," responded Mr. Dittemore.

ALLEGES TRICKERY.

"In November of 1918 did I not tell you that if you were a member of a mortal mind board they would not let you act as you were acting?" "No."

Mr. Dittemore told of Mrs. Longyear of Brookline having given much to the church, and that she was gotten rid of by means which he often characterized to his associates as a form of trickery.

He also referred to a controversy over the money and clothing collected for the American expeditionary force. About $500,000 was raised in cash together with contributions of a vast amount of clothing, yet not a single garment was sent out of the United States.

LEGISLATURE BUSIER THIS YEAR THAN LAST

Figures showing that the State Legislature has completed considerably more business so far this year than during the same period last year, have been made public by Speaker Young of the House. Bills reported, for the first four months of 1922, total 1942, which is forty-seven more than for the first four months of 1921, while bills referred number 2097, as against 1978 in the same length of time last year.

JEWELS STOLEN FROM BACK BAY HOME

Jewelry and table silverware, valued at $750, were stolen from the residence of Philip French, at No 138 Marlboro street, Back Bay, while Mr. French and his family were away from home on a week-end trip, according to a report made to the police.

The place had been entered by the front door, which had been jimmied. No clues could be found to the identity of the burglar.

It is thought that the break occurred early Sunday morning. The maid said that she had been awake and had heard a slight noise in the house, but that she had paid no attention to it.

AIRPLANE BILL IS ADVANCED DESPITE FOES

The legislative bill authorizing the Department of Public Works to construct and lease to the Federal Government an airplane landing field in the State lands in East Boston was denounced by Representative Hearn of Boston as "the Chamber of Commerce's fad," during the course of a debate on the measure in the House yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hearn declared that the State has paid $8,000,000 for the development of the East Boston flats for commercial purposes, and said that to appropriate part of this land for an aviation field would be "using the people's money to make a rich man's playground."

Representative Sawyer of Ware remarked with the remark that the proposed field would take only about one-eighth of the available land in East Boston, leaving plenty for commercial purposes. He was followed by Representative Jones of Nantucket, who remarked that "there has been no special commercial development in Boston recently anyway."

The House ordered the bill to a third reading by a large majority.

GAS TANKS IN CHARLESTOWN DISAPPROVED

Mayor Curley was again attacked by ex-Senator James H. Brennan of Charlestown at a meeting of the City Council on the question of granting a permit to the Charlestown Storage & Warehouse Company to store 2,000,000 gallons of gasoline at No. 55-56 Beach street, Charlestown. The Council unanimously disapproved the permit.

Mr. Brennan declared that the Charlestown Storage & Warehouse Company is a fake name for a concern that has no office and no seal. The Commonwealth Pipe & Supply Company, of which Francis Brennan of Ward 12, a "right hand man" of Mayor Curley is vice-president, is located at the same address, he said.

RAPPED BY MAYOR.

Mayor Curley, leaving the Council chamber, fired a parting shot at the Charlestown delegation when he said, "Opposition to industrial development, whether through the location of gasoline tanks, or other enterprises, is sometimes based on the purpose of collecting money."

Mr. Brennan retorted: "I challenge the Mayor to present his facts to the district attorney."

Edward A. Harrier, representing the Mutual Fire Insurance Company, opposed on the grounds that the location suggested was one of the worst conflagration breeders in the entire city, and should the gasoline stored there ever take fire it would wipe out the hundreds of wooden dwellings that are situated directly behind this land.

SAY BEACH MENACED.

The Charlestown delegation also claimed that the tanks would spoil Dewey Beach, the district's only bathing beach.

The only way the concern may obtain a permit is to have Mayor Curley veto the action of the council and then the matter would go to the street commissioners for another public hearing.

PLAYGROUND BLEACHER CONTRACT AWARDED

The contract for the construction of concrete bleachers at the John W. Murphy Jr., playground, Jamaica Plain, has been awarded to Samuel J. Tomasello of No. 11 Cushing terrace, Dorchester, according to an announcement from Mayor Curley's office. Tomasello was the lowest of five bidders, with an estimate of $1,650.

The Mayor also announced that the contract for sewerage work in Hyde Park avenue had been given to William Barrett & Co., whose bid of 39,385 was lower than any of the others received.

COMPANY PLANS TO SALVAGE LUSITANIA

Philadelphia, May 9.—An expedition for salvaging the Lusitania and other ships that have gone down to the bottom of the ocean in the last few years will start from this city May 25. The steamship Blakeley has been chartered. Estimates of gold that lies at the bottom of the sea run into millions. A single passenger was said to have deposited $75,000 with the purser of the Lusitania, while Mrs. Antoine Depage, wife of the medical director of the Red Cross, was reported to have carried more than $100,000.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Vincent Club Girl to Become Bride Next Week

By BETTY ALDEN

AMONG the young women who will serve as bridesmaids during this month and the next is Miss Edith Sigourney, daughter of Mrs. Henry Sigourney of Beacon street and Nahant.

News concerning Edith Sigourney is generally apropos of tennis, at which game she has won considerable fame, but even this interesting sport must be laid aside when there is a wedding in the family.

The ceremony which will make Miss Mary Sigourney, the youngest of Mrs. Sigourney's four daughters, the bride of Commander Rochfort Loveband is quite naturally causing no small ripple of excitement among Boston's inner circles. For scarcely had announcement been made of the versatile Mary's engagement to the young English naval officer than, pop! society within just a few weeks began to hear of the wedding plans of the young couple.

The wedding itself is to be a quiet affair, with only two of the bride's sisters, the Misses Edith and Katherine Sigourney, as attendants, the ceremony taking place at the Sigourney Summer home at Nahant just a week from today at 4 o'clock. Following the service, there will be a large reception, and it is safe to say that the most representative members of Boston's fashionable contingent will be "among those present" at this affair.

It is no exaggeration to say that the Vincent Club will miss one of its cleverest and jolliest members in Mary Sigourney. The latter, who made her debut in 1917, has added in no small degree to the success of the shows presented by the Vincentites in recent years. Her "Scarecrow Dance," one of the biggest hits of this year's show, is little short of a masterpiece in its line.

The prospective groom is the son of Rev. Walter Loveband and Mrs. Loveband of Crawley, Sussex, England. He and Miss Sigourney met a year ago last Winter while the bride-to-be and her mother were sojourning at Bermuda, where the lieutenant-commander was stationed.

EDITH SIGOURNEY

Miss Edith Sigourney, noted tennis player, who will be one of the attendants at the wedding of her sister, Miss Mary Sigourney, and Lieutenant-Commander Loveband of the royal navy. The ceremony will take place a week from today at Nahant.

THOSE who wish to see the very smartest and latest of sport models may have their wish gratified by attending the performance next Friday afternoon at Tremont Theatre in aid of the actors' benefit fund, when a group of society girls are to present "Sports of the World."

Vivid and colorful answers to the puzzling questions: What to wear golfing, riding, tennising, motoring, fishing, sailing and swimming may all be found next Friday afternoon. Costumes are being supplied by the most exclusive modistes along Gotham's most exclusive highway—Fifth avenue.

Among the girls who will don these smart sport models are the Misses Betty Abbott, Barbara Blake, Kitty Cheseborough, Elizabeth Caswell, Josephine Cushman, Evelyn Gardiner, Lydia Junlop, Dorothy King, Georgianna Hawkins, Phyllis Hartmen, Emily Thompson, Marion Sagendorph, Alice Onderdonk, Beatrice Farmer, Rosamond Reed, Lena Turnbull and Gertrude Wiggin.

Speaking of Elizabeth Caswell—I doubt if one could wish to see a more striking vision of loveliness than Miss Caswell when she appeared in the Phantom Chorus of the Vincent show, portraying the style of 1922. Miss Caswell is tall and slim, with a wealth of golden hair, which contrasts strikingly with her deep brown eyes. The gown worn by this very attractive young woman was of cloth of gold, its shimmering rays just matching the wearer's hair. She also played the part of Miriam Manning in "Now and Then," but it was her appearance later in the play in the Phantom Chorus which gave rise to polite, but undeniable, murmurs of admiration from the audience.

AMONG the "younger married set" establishing permanent homes just now are the Frederick Wadsworth Busks (Harriet Lee Fessenden), whose recently-purchased residence is at No. 13 Kingsbury road, Chestnut Hill.

Mrs. Busk is the daughter of the Sewall Fessendens, who have an intermediate home at Chestnut Hill.

Since the marriage of the young people, some two years ago, they have devoted a considerable portion of their time to traveling, and the many Boston friends of both are glad indeed that they have decided to "settle down" in the Hub.

WEALTHY NEWPORTERS LOSE BEACH FIGHT

Newport, R. I., May 9.—Efforts of members of the Summer colony here to prevent the Newport Beach Association from securing a hold on Easton's Beach were considered finally at an end, following the rescript of a decision made by Judge Brown of the Superior Court, denying a temporary injunction to the petitioners. The association secured a twenty-year lease on the beach from the city, and the court holds that the city is within its rights in making this lease. It is understood that there is no appeal.

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

MRS. GEORGE VON L. MEYER of Boston has arrived for a few days' visit in New York, where she is a guest at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton.

Miss Anna Hamlin, who came on to Boston from Washington to serve as bridesmaid at the wedding of Miss Rosanna Fiske and Lieut. B. Sanderson, Jr., a week ago Saturday, has returned to the capital. Miss Hamlin has taken a box for the Capital City Horse Show on May 12, an event which never fails to monopolize the attention of Washington's fashionable contingent.

Members of the Summer colony at Nahant will miss from their ranks this coming season the Francis Grays of Commonwealth avenue and Milton, who are to spend the hot months at the Lawrence homestead in Groton.

Following a season spent on Marlboro street, the William Amory Parkers and their family are now spending the Spring months at Mrs. Parker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Ames, at the North Easton estate.

S. Hooper Hooper will be of the Boston contingent sailing for abroad next month. Mr. Hooper, who makes his home at the Tennis and Racquet Club, will be a passenger on board the Pittsburgh, the new White Star liner, leaving New York June 24.

WORLD WAR ON DRUG EVIL IS RENEWED

By WINIFRED BLACK.

Washington, May 9.—Mrs. Hamilton Wright of Washington is in Europe trying to see what she can do to revive interest in the agreement made at the narcotic conference at The Hague just before the war.

I wonder just how much success she will have.

Mrs. Wright is a brilliant and exceedingly able woman. She is interested so deeply in the question of the narcotic evil that she has given most of her time to a study of the situation ever since her husband died.

Hamilton Wright was a delegate to the opium convention at The Hague and Mrs. Wright went with him.

They both worked night and day to bring about some sort of understanding between the nations so that the drug traffic could be really killed.

UNDERSTANDING REACHED.

That understanding was reached and the delegates went back to England and to France and to Italy and to America satisfied and happy.

And then came the war, and nobody paid the least attention anywhere to the agreement made at The Hague conference.

Why does not somebody call a meeting of another such conference and get right down to the bottom of this drug traffic, and cut it off at the root, and be done with it?

Years ago, China awoke to the fact that the whole nation was being drugged to death and the Chinese people rose and made the most pathetic and the most magnificent fight in history.

But the English opium monopoly did not want to do without the Chinese trade, so England went to war and it and forced the opium down the very throats of the Chinese.

Twice this thing was done.

And now China is making another desperate fight against opium. In China today a man caught selling opium is instantly beheaded—that is what the Chinese know about the evil of the drug, which eats away at the manhood of China for generations.

MUST FIGHT JAPS.

Now it is the Japanese they must fight.

Japan owns railroads and post-offices in China and by that means Japan is carrying in opium by the ton.

A Japanese postoffice station usually consists of three or four official Japanese, a little store of general merchandise and twenty or thirty Yoshawara girls, and the moment these poor slave girls arrive the opium traffic begins.

What is easier for a poor victim than to step across the line from China into Japanese territory and get all of the opium he wants, and nobody allowed to say a word to him?

Now Japan has taken over a new government monopoly and is getting the opium out of Siberia.

She cannot sell it all to China.

Who is the next best customer? England is too far away. Japan itself will not permit the sale of a single grain to a Japanese. Next, then, the Philippines, Hawaii—and finally the United States of America itself.

MONOPOLY IN OPIUM.

Then there is the English opium monopoly.

We ourselves have four large American factories. These factories get the opium in the crude form and they make it over into morphine and cocaine and heroin. How much do they make a year?

Where do they sell it?

Who gets the benefit of it?

Why should they be allowed to manufacture any more than what is needed in medical practice by actual hospitals and reputable physicians?

Good luck to Mrs. Hamilton Wright and her earnest and determined effort to get the nations of the world to keep the promise they made at the Hague Conference.

In the meantime, how about our own shirts here at home?

Are they absolutely free from the mud?

CABINET MAY ACT TODAY ON BRITISH DEBT FUNDING

Washington, May 9. — At today's Cabinet meeting, the date probably will be determined for beginning negotiations with the British government, relative to the funding of the British war debt to the United States.

It is not probable, though, that the commission will meet this week, as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wadsworth, secretary of the commission, is ill.

Ambassador Geddes, it is stated, has informally conveyed the information to Secretary Hughes that he is ready to act for his government at the pleasure of the commission.

PRISONERS ATTACK GUARDS AND FLEE

Wichita, Kas., May 9.—Twenty inmates of the municipal farm bound and gagged three guards and escaped. Only one inmate, a cripple, refused to take the chance for liberty.

Kindergarten "Bad Men" Are Caught With the Goods

Two five-year-old North Cambridge boys and one six-year-old slipped into West Somerville on a foraging tour. They "burgled" the store of Peter Mullen in Day street. Pete has a one-story store with a skylight on the roof. But one story, when a robber is only five years old, is some height. It was scaled with boxes.

When Leo Hurley, reserve police officer, entered the store the kindergarten bad men were hiding 'neath bags. Leo shook them loose and relieved them of their loot. It was 27 cents. Then he took the boys home.

GHOSTS PLAYED BY WOMAN EVANGELIST

Chicago, May 9.—Ghosts? There are none. The dead don't walk, and spirits don't talk.

Mrs. Mattie Crawford, "Woman Billy Sunday," undertook today to lay the ghosts raised by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle.

"Doyle and other Spiritualists are causing suicides," she said, "by depicting death as a beautiful release from troubles. They are inducing the sick, the old and hopeless to kill themselves."

Mrs. Crawford is an evangelist for the Pentecostal Brethren and claims the physically and mentally ill can be cured by faith. A simple prayer has often effected a miraculous cure, she said. But Spiritualism cannot cure.

"Spiritualism is either the devil's work or a compound of piffle, hocus-pocus, stuff and nonsense," she charged. "Their so-called materializations are either faking or folly, an affront to Almighty God and our dear dead."

Mrs. Chawford attempted to show how "materializations" were produced by "mediums." Always, she pointed out, the medium must work in the dark where the audience cannot see how it is done. There is nothing mysterious or supernatural about these apparitions when they are understood, she said.

Advancing the idea that those who go to heaven must take their heaven with them, Mrs. Crawford said she feared those who destroy themselves to escape ills of this earth cannot be happy in the spirit world.

Doyle, she believes, is doing great harm when he attempts to picture those who have destroyed themselves as being happy in the spirit-land.

"I preach the opposite doctrine," she said, "to tell you that faith will cure you. Pray with me and you will become well."

BOXER WILLIE JACKSON SUED FOR DIVORCE

New York, May 9.—Counsel for Mrs. Pauline Tobin appeared before Justice Gavagan seeking $25,000 yearly alimony and $7,500 counsel fees.

She is suing for separation from Oscar Tobin. He is the lightweight prize fighter known as Willie Jackson. It was announced that Jackson is making a counter claim for divorce.

Mrs. Tobin charged cruelty over a period of five years. She said her husband has $325,000 in bank. They have one daughter, Sheila, two years old.

Louis J. Hartman, counsel for the prize fighter, said his client was practically poor, having only $4,000 left of his fortune because of the exorbitant demands made on him for sable coats and jewelry by his wife.

He said Mrs. Tobin had received $2,000 from her husband the day before she started her action for a separation. He said she lived with the prize fighter for eight days after the papers had been served on him.

In his counter claim for a divorce the prize fighter names one Al Simon.

LINK BRAZIL TO BAY STATE

SOUTH AMERICAN PARTY AT STATE HOUSE

On right, is Sebastiano Sampaio of the Brazilian Embassy, leader of the delegation that invited Boston and Massachusetts to attend the Brazilian Centennial Convention next September. The others, left to right are, Senator Wellington Wells, Frank A. Harrison of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore of New York.

BRAZILIANS GET CORDIAL WELCOME

A noisy and enthusiastic welcome was extended to delegates of the Brazilian government by members of the State Senate and House when the Legislature temporarily suspended its sittings to receive an invitation to attend the Brazilian Centennial Convention next September.

The Brazilian party was headed by Sebastiano Sampaio, who is attached to the Brazilian Embassy at Washington, and who is engaged with the rest of his party in touring the United States to promote more cordial feeling between this country and his own.

When the legislators recessed to receive their guests, M. Sampaio ascended to the Speaker's platform where he was introduced by Speaker Loring B. Young. He stated that Brazil had entered the late war because of its friendship for the United States, reviewed the traditional feeling of friendliness between the two countries, and expressed the hope that they might continue.

He then described the exposition which his country will hold this Fall in celebration of the 100th anniversary of its independence. He pointed out that the American government will send representatives, and invited Boston business men to attend.

M. Sampaz previously conferred with W. Irving Bullard of the Mechanis National Bank, who will represent Massachusetts and Rhode Island at the industrial exposition. Senor Sampaio also called on Governor Cox and Mayor Curley and held a conference with prominent Boston manufacturers and exporters.

HOLLIS PRESIDENT OF RETAIL SHOE SALESMEN

At the dinner and monthly meeting of the Boston Retail Shoe Salesmen's Association, held at Dupont's, No. 49 West street, the following officers were elected: President, Leonard W. Hollis; vice president, C. M. Sewall; secretary, Robert W. Daley, and treasurer, Elmer A. Kuhlen.

Curley Asks Ruling on "Passing Hat" at Ball Games

Because ball players on some city play grounds are forbidden by the authorities from "passing the hat" to pay for the game, while players on other grounds are allowed to do so, Mayor James M. Curley has requested the Park Department to make a ruling on the matter that will affect all grounds alike.

FATE AGAIN BALKS WAR ROMANCE

New York, May 9.—In a field hospital on the western front in 1914 Laure Dalle, Red Cross nurse of Belgium, confessed her love for Camille Asp, a wounded soldier of France, and promised to be his bride. They planned to wed when his wounds were healed.

The days passed, the German armies pressed on and Camille was sent back into the lines. Since that day circumstance, red tape and fate have prevented every attempt of Camille to make Laure his wife.

Circumstance—in the way of the Belgian immigration quota—has now thwarted them again. They are held at Ellis Island, pending a hearing before a special board of inquiry.

When Camille returned to the front during the war Laure was sent to Lille. Later when the Germans occupied that town she aided two French officers to escape and was held by the Germans as a spy. Later she was sentenced to death, but was saved by the armistice.

Camille thought he had died and came to the United States. He was sent to Uruguay to represent an export firm and while there learned that Laure was alive.

6 SHOT, 2 DYING, IN BATTLE OF BOOTLEGGERS

New York, May 9.— A girl, a woman and four men were shot last evening in a pistol battle between rival groups of bootleggers in Grand street a block East of police headquarters. Two of the men were reported later to be dying.

Five of the victims got in the line of fire of the gunmen, but the fourth man, who was one of the two dangerously wounded, was believed by the police to know something about the motive for the shooting. All refused to tell detectives how he suffered a pistol bullet in the back, when taken to Bellevue Hospital.

Shortly before the man appeared at the hospital detectives investigating the shooting learned that, although it was one of a series of pistol battle between rival bands of bootleggers in which many men have been killed the immediate incentive for the fray was the shooting and killing earlier in the day of Vincent Morelli, also known as Vincenzova, in Harlem.

Morelli, the police say, was a nephew of "Lupo the Wolf" Morelli leader of a band of blackbinders and counterfeiters that, fifteen years ago, held Italians in this city in a state of terror.

B. U. MAN TO STUDY EUROPEAN CONDITIONS

He will visit the educational centres of England, France, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Switzerland, Roumania and Jugo-Slavia.

JEWISH RELIEF FLOWER DAY TO BE HELD

Several thousand young women will invade the principal thoroughfares of Boston and vicinity on Tuesday, May 16, in an effort to sell flowers for the relief of the Jewish war sufferers. The plans for flower day were made at a meeting of the executive committee of the Boston Jewish war relief drive.

Girls will be stationed at every subway and L station, also hotel and department stores, with small contribution boxes and baskets of flowers. Hundreds of young women will invade the business districts and will visit the stores and offices. It is estimated that more than 3,000 persons will assist in the collection of funds throughout Greater Boston.

The following committees was appointed to take charge of the arrangements for flower days: Felix Vorenberg, Arnold Hartman, Dr. Philip Castleman, Ludwig Einemann and Maynard L. Ginsberg.

This noon at the City Club the trade teams and ward chairmen will meet and reports of collections made during the past four days will be announced. It is expected that the canvass made by the teams during the four days will have achieved splendid results.

WAR MOTHERS TO KEEP OUT OF ALL POLITICS

New York, May 9.—The American War Mothers, through Mrs. H. Rinnet Digney, president of the national organization, issued a denial of a report that the organization would take part in congressional and senatorial elections this Fall in every State in order to elect candidates pledged to support the League of Nations.

"Our organization is entirely non-political," Mrs. Digney said, "and will take no active part in any political movement, national, State or local."

BURRAGE WINS HONOR MEDAL FOR ORCHIDS

Albert C. Burrage, president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, was awarded the George Robert White Medal of Honor for the year 1922 by a unanimous vote of the trustees of the society.

The trustees based their award largely on the fact that Mr. Burrage has perfected the finest collection of exotic orchids in the New World, and on his exhibition of wild ferns and flowers in the present horticultural exhibition.

2 VETERAN POLICEMEN VOLUNTARILY RETIRE

Two police officers, each with a record of over a score of years, went on the voluntary retired list today. They are Patrolmen Daniel P. Cameron and Thomas S. Graham, both of the City Hall Avenue Station. Cameron has served for twenty-two years, and lives at No. 567 Tremont street, while Graham, a veteran of twenty-eight years' service, resides at No. 44 Parkton road, Jamaica Plain.

Melrose City Hall to Be Scene of De Mar Victory Banquet

A banquet will be given by citizens of Melrose to Clarence De Mar, veteran winner of the Boston marathon race. The banquet will be given in the Melrose City Hall on Tuesday evening, May 23.

The affair is being handled by a committee of citizens of the suburb where the record-breaking runner lives. They plan to sell fully 1,000 tickets to the banquet, and announce that they will present De Mar with some suitable testimonial of their esteem.

WAVE CRUSHES SKULL OF TRAVELER

New York, May 9.—A freak wave which struck the Royal Mail liner Orbita while the ship was off the Grand Banks cost the life of Theodore Vogel of Springfield, Mass., traveling in the third class.

The Orbita has just reached this port from South Hampton. The sea became so choppy that Captain Matthews ordered all passengers off the forward deck. Vogel, according to the ship's officer, violated the order.

Suddenly a semi-tidal wave hit the ship. Vogel was flung against a winch.

H. J. Lelen, the purser, and Dr. F. H. Lucas, ship's surgeon, ran to the man's assistance. Unconscious, he was picked up. Several hours later he died of a fractured skull. He was buried at sea the next morning.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED WHEN STILL EXPLODES

Springfield, May 8.—A still in the home of Mrs. Mary Kalinowicz of No. 159 Sharon street exploded and set fire to the place. Mrs. Kalinowicz was badly burned. The kitchen was wrecked, dishes were smashed, windows blown out and the stove upset. Firemen took the woman to Mercy Hospital. She will recover.

This Free Bottle of Lura—The New Liquid Shampoo—Will Bring Health and Beauty to Your Hair

The rediscovered tonic of Ancient Egypt

WOMEN of all time have sought to preserve and increase the beauty and life of their hair—Woman's crowning glory.

The ancient Egyptians were masters of the arts of the toilette, in an age when physical beauty was an object of religious worship.

For over 4,000 years their wise men labored to discover tonics that would increase and preserve beauty.

With one exception, their beauty secrets are lost to us, and that exception is now presented to the women of America, in LURA LIQUID SHAMPOO.

To the constant use of Henna Tonic is definitely ascribed the great beauty of the hair of the Egyptian queens, which, after the passage of centuries, retains its lovely texture and glorious sheen.

Brings Out the Glint

Lura has no equal as a shampoo. It is a sweet, cleansing liquid, is far superior to other shampoos, its strength lying in its solution, which, being made entirely from pure cocoanut oil and other salutary ingredients, insures a greater solvent of greasy and oily matters that accumulate on the scalp and in the hair. On account of the strength of the solution, you will get a much quicker, heavier and more cleansing lather than is possible with other shampoos, which at once makes your shampooing expense very little. One bottle of Lura Liquid Shampoo will last many weeks.

We know of no similar product on the market that combines a henna and a liquid soap in one solution. People of refinement have discovered that the prophylactic action of this wonderful preparation keeps the hair and the scalp clean, pure and wholesome. It stops itching, cools the fevered scalp and imparts a marked sense of cleanliness. So, be assured, this product primarily is a shampoo—not a coloring or a dye

Lura—A Tonic

For henna'is, first of all, a tonic for the hair, though it can be used to confer the ruddy gold color that is so much desired.

However, that was not, in the old days, the primary or most important use of it; nor is it today.

Comparatively few women wish to change the color of their hair, but every woman hopes to maintain its original fresh, natural tones.

This, LURA LIQUID SHAMPOO will do.

Its most valuable quality is its tonic effect on the hair and scalp.

Its use brings back the gloss and brightness of youth without altering the color of the hair in the slightest degree unless the user so desires.

It positively will not stain or discolor the scalp or fingers in even the smallest degree.

We want you to try this marvelous rediscovered secret at our expense.

We want you to prove, by use, the truth of every statement we have made.

That is why we are offering a free test bottle of LURA LIQUID SHAMPOO—free for this week only. LURA Henna Shampoo, oversize 8-oz. bottle; LURA Ideal Shampoo (without Henna), generous 6-oz. bottle. At all druggists.

PASTOR CURTIS TAKES RAP AT PRESBYTERY

Charging that the members of the Presbytery are injuring the First Presbyterian Church of Brookline, and that the ministers who are backing them should have other work to do in the interest of God and humanity, the Rev. Edwin Curtis, pastor of the church, is determined to fight the suit to oust him from his office.

The split in the church, which has now reached the Supreme Court, came when the minister bleeased some French fried potatoes and baptized the pet dog of one of his parishioners.

MINISTER'S STATEMENT.

The minister said:

"It is difficult to perceive an exalted purpose of any kind in the action which is being taken against the church. It is calculated, from every point of view, to hurt and disintegrate. Nor is anything good to be gained by it.

"On the other hand it is an evidence of the sincerity of the men who are standing by the church that they have so willingly suffered inconvenience and persecution for their convictions, all too rare a thing today.

"It might be thought that the ministers who are thrusting these men into the courts had other work to do in the interests of God and humanity."

$3,000 SALARY

Members of the Presbytery ordered the church to terminate Rev. Mr. Curtis' services at a meeting held on February 27. On April 12, the corporation of the church extended a call to the minister and requested him to accept the position, carrying with it a salary of $3,000 a year and the use of the manse at No. 15 Holden street.

The Presbytery dispute the validity of the corporation meeting of April 12 and say it was not held in accordance with the government and policy of the Presbyterian Church in the United States.

ACCUSED SECOND TIME OF STEALING "VACS"

Though given a chance to make good a year ago, when he was convicted of stealing vacuum cleaners from the Domestic Appliance Company where he was employed as a salesman, Emile Caron, thirty-six years old, or No. 43 Magnolia street, Cambridge, was arrested on a similar charge. He is alleged to have disposed of eighteen cleaners valued at $167. When convicted on the same charge last year he was given a suspended sentence, and his employers reinstated him in his position.

WOMAN HELD FOR ATTACK ON HUSBAND

Mrs. Hattie Webb, colored, of Grove street, North Lexington, was bound over to the grand jury by Judge Keyes in the Concord District Court on charges of assault with intent to kill, in connection with an attack she is alleged to have made with an ice pick on her husband, Henry L. Webb. Webb is at the Symmes Arlington Hospital, and his name is on the danger list. The stabbing grew out of a domestic row, it is said.

5. Three prominent St. Paul people have consented to act as judges in this contest. Their decision will be final. Judges: Publicity Director, Theodore, and P. M. Reagan, President, Wabash National Bank. Final decision must be accepted as final and conclusive.

6. Your answer must be mailed and postmarked not later than June 5, 1922. The judges must not be made later to award the prizes. The names of the winners will be published in the St. Paul papers immediately and mailed to persons who order a "Wonder" Purse.

The one woman who knows

What's really wrong with marriage

SHE has had more marital troubles confided to her than any one else. Letters, "personal and confidential," come to her from the Philippines, from Manchuria—from the world over. Girls between seventeen and twenty-two write most frequently. Again at thirty-five women seek her help. Men of thirty ask her advice more often than cocksure youths of twenty.

Thousands upon thousands, married and single, young and old, have followed her safely past the shoals upon which love and marriage are so often wrecked. Because, while others theorize, and moralize, and preach about what ought to be, she knows how to reconcile romance and matrimony.

If you are married, and fear some day to find happiness a glimmering illusion—if you are going to marry but dread to follow married people you know, do not by any chance miss reading—Beatrice Fairfax's—"What's the Matter with Matrimony," in June Cosmopolitan.

CAN A DIVORCED MAN EVER FORGET HIS FIRST WIFE?

A dramatic revelation for every husband and wife in another of Frederic Arnold Kummer's searching studies of married life.

If your husband confessed to deliberate, cold-blooded murder, could you forget, forgive and PRAISE him? Read

FATHER AND 4 CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES

By Associated Press.

Margano, Ill., May 8.—Five persons were burned to death here in a fire which destroyed the home of August Bourke, Jr.

The dead are: Bourke and four children, Harold, nine years old; Walter, five; Helen, three, and Verna, two.

The mother and two children, one a six months old baby, were saved by the father, who lost his life in an attempt to save the remaining children.

New Dance Floor at Arena

When 2,500 dancers crowded into the Arena dance floor Saturday night, establishing a record for a public dance hall in this city, Manager George W. Brown decided that the 10,000 square feet of dancing space was inadequate for his patrons. He has decided to add 4,000 feet of clear maple flooring to the dance area, which would give the Arena 20,000 feet of dancing space, the largest in the East, if not in the country. At the regular Tuesday dance tonight at the Arena dancing followers will see a special whirlwind exhibition by Helen Daley and Jesse Odalia.

QUEER FEELINGS AT MIDDLE AGE

Women Should Know how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps at This Trying Period

Sheboygan, Wisconsin. — "I was run down, tired and nervous. I could not even do my own housework, could not sleep at night and all kinds of queer thoughts would come to me. Finally I gave up going to the doctor and a friend told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After the first bottle I could sleep better and I have kept on improving ever since. I have taken seven bottles now and am so happy that I am all over those bad feelings." —Mrs. B. LANSER, 1639 N. 3rd St., Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

For the woman entering middle age Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can be of much benefit. During this time of life certain changes take place which sometimes develop into serious trouble.

Melancholia, nervousness, irritability, headache and dizziness are some of the symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a natural restorative, especially designed to assist nature in carrying you safely past this time. Why not give it a fair trial?

SULPHUR IS BEST TO CLEAR UP UGLY, BROKEN OUT SKIN

Says Mentho-Sulphur Overcomes Trouble Over Night.

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment or disfigurement. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

BOY INMATES IN REVENGE 'KLAN,' IS CHARGE

Five boys between the ages of fourteen and sixteen, all inmates of the Massachusetts School for the Feeble Minded, were to be given a continued hearing in the Waltham District Court today on charges of being stubborn children.

The Weston police will also charge them with breaking and entering and larceny.

At the same time, the youngsters will be given an opportunity to tell Judge Connolly about the "tyranny" which they claim the masters of the school have been inflicting on them.

According to officials of the school, a secret society, known as the "Ku Klux Klan" has been formed among the boys at the school. Its purpose, they declare, is to wreak vengeance on their supervisors.

On one occasion last week, it is said, a number of boys, acting on the instigation of this society, attacked a master in the school with knives and tried to kill him. He was saved by the intervention of other officers there.

At other times, according to the officials charged the boys have made organized assaults on those of the masters who have punished them.

The five boys in question are alleged to have fled from the school several days ago, to have broken into a home in Weston and stolen jewelry and other valuables which they carried to a "camp" at Natick, where for several days they made their headquarters.

The Weston police recently raided this camp. There, they claim, they recovered a quantity of the stolen property and found, in addition, a number of well-made masks and improvised clubs.

The boys were brought into court a week ago as stubborn children on the orders of Superintendent Walter Fernald of the school. He took this step, he said, because they were unruly and he could not keep them in order.

The boys protested that they were abused, given poor food and confined in poor quarters at the school.

Incidentally, it is almost unprecedented for criminal charges to be placed against inmates of an institution for defectives.

The boys are Samuel Richman, fourteen years old, Irving Whitcher, fourteen, Elmer Dearborn, sixteen, George Kent, fifteen and Arthur Riley, fifteen.

N. E. ROADS SHOULD MERGE, SAYS MELLON

The solution of the New England railroad and the port of Boston problems is that the railroads shall be combined into one united system serving all lines, Canadian and American trunk lines, treating them impartially and encouraging them all, according to a letter sent by Charles S. Mellen, former president of the Boston & Maine, Maine Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford railroads, to Edmund D. Codman, former president of the Fitchburg Railroad.

BRUSH FIRE DESTROYS TRUCK LOAD OF WOOL

Canton, May 8.—An auto truck load of wool and an unoccupied house were burned by a brush fire which swept both sides of Turnpike street, off the Boston-Taunton road. Some valuable timber was also destroyed. The house was the property of Richard Healy. The truck was bound for Boston, and the wool, caught fire when the driver recklessly drove along a stretch of road which was ablaze on either side. He had to run for his life, leaving his car and cargo to their fate.

ENGLISH CRUISER TO DOCK AT NAVY YARD

Officers and enlisted personnel of the H. M. S. Constance, English cruiser, will be extended a welcome by the Army and Navy Club, when the cruiser docks at the navy yard today. Mrs. Barrett Wendell and Mrs. Richard D. Coe comprise the club's entertainment committee. A special dinner and dance is to be tendered officers and the crew, who will remain here ten days.

"NATIONAL DISGRACE DAY" IS OBSERVED IN CHINA

Amoy, China, May 9 (By the Associated Press).—"National Disgrace Day" was generally observed today as a mark of protest against Japan's "twenty-one demands" on China, made in 1915. All places of business and amusement were closed. The schools, guilds, clubs and other organizations united in an immense parade and demonstration.

THE trotteur that Lelong sends down to the seaside and up to the mountains may very aptly be of white wool fabric and may have its jacket everywhere busy with bands of gay-colored plaid wool fabric and embroidered arrows. Banding the skirt to match the jacket is a clever notion.

QUITE as colorful and equally attractive is a tailleur designed by Maison Cle for the Summar out-of-doors occasion. The short belted jacket is of gray woolen fabric, trimmed with bands and applied points of the gray material striped in red, which makes the entire skirt.

MEDBURY

Says One Guy Was So Cheap He Asked the Photographer if a Profile Picture Would Be Less Expensive Than a Full View

Every day we read about spendthrifts, but we never hear much about tightwads. A tightwad is a man who holds on to a dime so tight that he squeezes eleven cents out of it.

Before he'l pay your car fare he counts ten and by that time you've paid it.

And if ten isn't enough he'll count twenty.

You take him for a trip in your automobile and he'll go fifty-fifty on the trip. You buy the oil and gas and he furnishes the air and water.

When his wife goes down town in their machine he maps out the shortest route and then measures the gasoline to see if she took it.

Whenever he goes hunting he uses blank cartridges because they are cheaper.

He loves golf but he never tries to become a good player because when you can't hit the ball you can't lose it.

He's even tight with his matches. He waits until there's a fire in the neighborhood so he can light his cigar.

When his trousers get baggy at the knees, instead of having them pressed, he turns them inside out.

He very seldom sits down. His figures that leather is cheaper than cloth.

He had some photographs made once and asked the photographer if a profile would be cheaper than full view.

He bought a post card photo of the Thousand Islands one day and then tried to get his money back because only nine hundred of them were in the picture.

Then he went out and told his friends he'd lost a lot of money in a real estate deal.

When he wants to talk to anybody over the telephone he sends them a postal and asks them to call him up.

He goes into a pay station and calls himself up. He knows there's no body there but he likes the thrill of getting his nickel back.

When he's ready to leave for home at night he goes out and calls up his house and tells central to ring twice. When his wife hears two bells she knows that he's coming home, but she doesn't answer the phone and it doesn't cost him anything.

He only got foiled once in his whole life and that was when he got married. Somebody told him that two people could live cheaper than one.

ONE-ARMED VET TOO MUCH FOR PICKPOCKET

New York, May 8.—Loss of an arm at Chateau Thierry did not prevent Frank Rolicki from capturing a pickpocket who tried to frisk him on a street car. He testified that Albert Reiss tried to pick the pocket on the side where Rolicki wears an artificial arm.

FOUR INJURED IN STONEHAM

A man and a woman were painfully hurt and two other persons less seriously injured when two automobiles met in a head-on collision at Main street and Broadway, Stoneham.

The woman, Mrs. Charles E. Campbell of No. 87 Chestnut street, Wakefield, was riding with her husband and her mother, Mrs. Flora Pickett, and was thrown through the windshield when the crash occurred, receiving severe cuts about the head and neck.

Willis Dennett, of No. 9 Bennett street, Medford, the driver of the other car, was thrown out and received internal injuries. He is at the Winchester Hospital.

Mrs. Pickett and Campbell also were slightly injured.

MAYOR SEEKS TO END PAINTERS' CONTROVERSY

A conference will be held this afternoon in the office of Mayor Curley, at which he will try to induce the officials of the Painters' Union to enter into an agreement with the master painters in regard to the union's demand for a five-day week.

The Mayor is anxious to bring about a settlement of the existing differences on account of the great amount of building in prospect for the summer.

SUIT AGAINST AGOOS ESTATE FOR $150,000

Isaac Dimond of Boston has brought suit for $150,000 against the estate of the late Lazaor Agoos, for alleged breach of contract by Agoos to reimburse the plaintiff for any loss suffered by him as a stockholder of L. Agoos & Co., Inc. Dimond says that on December 9, 1920, Agoos induced him to invest in the Washington-Essex Building Trust, and that he suffered a loss of $99,399.64.

YOUTH RESCUES DROWNING BOY, VANISHES

A freckled-faced boy of about twelve years plunged into the Mystic River, saved the life of six-year-old Francis Garbin of No. 31 Lincoln street, Charlestown, who was sinking for the third time, and vanished without revealing his identity.

Young Garbin was hauled ashore at the Sullivan square playground in a half-drowned condition by his youthful rescuer.

Francis was playing with several comrades when he stumbled into the river and was swept several yards from the bank. He was unable to swim.

His companions were too terrified to help him. Their cries brought the elder boy.

Garbin was taken to the Relief Hospital for treatment. He is still being held there, but his condition is not considered serious.

In the excitement attending the efforts which police made at resuscitating him, his rescuer slipped away unnoticed.

MAYOR ASKS TRANSFER OF SOUTH BOSTON LAND

Mayor Curley appeared before the City Council and urged the members to reconsider their action of last week in refusing to transfer land in South Boston, near the Strandway, to the State. The Council tabled the matter until its next meeting on Monday.

Elect J. Weston Allen

Attorney-General J. Weston Allen was elected temporary chairman of the Boston Civitan Club at a meeting of Boston business and professional men at the City Club, when preliminary plans toward organizing a Boston chapter were made. The new club is similar to the Rotary and Kiwanis organizations.

CHURCH THIEF SUSPECT HAD GUM AND WIRE

Not all burglar tools are jimmies, drills or saws. An innocent looking piece of chewing gum, and a few inches of wire can easily be the means of a robbery. Louis Bouchler possessed both when he was picked up by the South Boston police hanging around St. Eulalia's Church. They saw he had alms on the poor box. He has a long record, police say, of robbing poor boxes by the way of the chewing gum and wire method.

PEGGY JOYCE ORDERED OUT OF FRANCE

Paris, May 7.—An amusing report is circulating in high quarters in Paris, to the effect that Peggy Hopkins Joyce has been required to leave France and not return for twenty years.

The request is said to have resulted from a demand made by the Chilean legation on behalf of Mrs. Errazuriz, wife of William Errazuriz, who last week committed suicide at Claridge's Hotel.

Judge Merillon, of the French Appeals Court, father of Pierre Merillon, Peggy's former fiance, joined in the appeal according to the reports.

Mrs. Errazuriz, mother of the suicide, is said to have stated that Peggy tried to make capital of her son's tragic death.

Judge Merillon is reported to have threatened to disown Pierre if he travelled to America on the Mauretania, on which Peggy is a passenger. So Pierre is leaving on the Aquitania next Saturday.

All these statements which are flying about Paris absolutely lack confirmation from any official source. Paul Valpenchenon, Maurice the dancer, and others admitted hearing the reports.

"It is a ridiculous libel," said Henri Letellier, who is said to have won Peggy's consent to marriage. "Peggy will be back in June."

PASTOR SUES MEMBERS OF PARISH FOR $10,000

Pittsfield, May 8.—The Rev. Walter C. Carroll, pastor of the Becket Centre Congregational Church, has entered suit for $10,000 in Superior Court against Omri S. Willis, Henry A. Bidwell and Roy W. B. Smith, prominent members of his congregation at North Becket.

Patrick J. Moore, attorney for the minister, said the Rev. Carroll had been made the victim of a lockout at the North Becket Congregational Church, of which he had been originally engaged as joint pastor, for one year, with the Becket Centre Church. Although prevented from preaching at North Becket, where he had no trouble with the church officials, the church is still paying him its share of his salary.

BREAKS HIS NECK IN WRESTLING WITH FRIEND

Springfield, May 8.—Isaac Mamek, thirty-three years, of No. 79 Essex street, is dead of a broken neck, and Alex Swerdsick, proprietor of a boarding house, is detained by the police following a wrestling match between the pair. Mamek and a dozen friends spent the evening at the boarding house and the police say all partook of liquor.

REFORMS URGED BY MOVIE EXHIBITORS

By Universal Service.

Washington, May 8.—Reform of every phase of the movie industry, except the box office, was urged at the exhibitors' convention. It was declared that there is no chance for lower prices while receipts are falling off at the rate of $43,000,000 a year.

This was the substance of the report of President Sidney S. Cohen to the motion picture theatre owners of America. He said that receipts fell off more than $43,000,000 in 1921.

President Cohen proposed that the organization boycott the works of the composers of music who are members of the American society of composers, authors and publishers, which exacts a royalty on music played in movie houses and comprises most of the writers of popular hits.

Mr. Cohen outlined a plan by which the exhibitors would encourage new and independent composers by publishing, playing and exploiting their compositions, paying them no tax on their music.

EPISCOPAL MINISTERS ASK TEXTILE PEACE

North Andover, May 8.—At the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Clerical Association of Episcopalian ministers held here, resolutions were passed asking the mill heads and strikers to get together on the present industrial situation with a view toward settlement. The clergymen listened to arguments by a representative from each side. Officers were chosen as follows: The Rev. Prescott Evarts, Cambridge, president. The Rev. Thomas E. Campbell, Jamaica Plain, vice-president. The Rev. Dr. Francis L. Beal, Peabody, secretary-treasurer.

$35,000,000 CARGOES BOUND FOR BOSTON

Nineteen ships are now on their way to Boston from the Far East. A conservative estimate of the value of their combined cargoes would be $35,000,000. A veteran Boston importer said today that a fleet of more than 250 old-time clipper ships would be required to carry the stuff stowed in the capacious holds of the nineteen big steel freighters.

Five ships are now on their way to Boston from River Plate and Brazilian ports, all bringing big cargoes of wool, hides, coffee and other high-class cargo.

FARMER GIVEN 60 DAYS TO NOURISH HIS COWS

John W. Wilson of Ward street, North Lexington, who was arraigned in Concord District Court, charged with not properly feeding three cows and a horse was given sixty days in which to properly feed the animals and restore them to a normal condition. If they are still undernourished at the end of that period he will be prosecuted.

Irving of Boston, is alive and well it has just been learned here, almost three years after he mysteriously disappeared. A friend has recently seen him in New York City. It also became known that action brought against Dr. Irving by the Ogdensburg National Bank for recovery on two notes has been settled out of court.

BEVERLY HOTEL OWNER WINS "BAD LIQUOR" SUIT

Fred Pye, proprietor of the Hotel Roberts at Beverly, does not sell bad liquor, a jury in the Superior Court at Salem decided, and Fred will not have to pay $10,000, the sum he was sued for by William O. Waggott. Waggott said that he took three drinks of whiskey at Pye's hotel, and then didn't wake up for three weeks. Deafness and blindness was the result, he said he was suffering from alcohol poisoning. Judge Luminus directed a verdict for Pye.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE ASKS AID OF FRIENDS

Anna Harris Smith, president of the Animal Rescue League, reports that the $25,000 fund which that organization is seeking for work on its Stuart street house has not yet been subscribed, and calls for friends of the league to complete the amount. The money is necessitated by the alterations in the house, which come as a result of the city's work on the Stuart street extension.

"MOONSHINE PARADISE" IN MALDEN IS RAIDED

Suffolk street, Malden, which Prohibition Agent Roberts said some time ago harbored twenty-two stills, was visited by a squad of raiders from his office, with the result that three stills were seized and a large quantity of moonshine confiscated. Nathan Baden of No. 37 Suffolk street and Morris Feinberg of No. 106 the same street were summoned to the Federal Court today.

COAL TEAM DRIVER AGAIN HURT BY TRUCK

For the second time in two weeks Emmanuel Pettine, a coal wagon driver of No. 195 C street, South Boston, has had his wagon assailed by an automobile truck. He is in the City Hospital suffering from a broken leg and ankle caused when the truck, driven by Charles Murphy of No. 54 H street, crashed into his wagon at Broadway, South Boston. The first accident occurred almost in the same place.

GRILL WOMAN IN INCENDIARY FIRES IN WEST ROXBURY HOUSE

CAKE AND CAPERS! Patsie Marion Miller, musical comedy star, slicing the first of her cake that marked the third anniversary of the founding of the College of Secretarial Science, Boston University. First slice went to Dean T. Lawrence Davis.

CHARLES DUTTON holding torch of twisted newspaper which had been lit by an incendiary and thrust through grating of his cellar at No. 116 Spring street, West Roxbury. The fire brand smudged itself out before it had done any damage.

PHOTO DIAGRAM of house and rear of cellar at No. 116 Spring street, West Roxbury, where four attempts to burn structure were made, and where last fire and resulting smoke hastened death of Mrs. John B. Sheehy, a tenant. Insert shows Paul Dutton, who discovered last fire. Black smoke seeped up through house to each room.

DIAGRAM SHOWING HEAVY SMOKE FROM BURNING TIRES IN CELLAR AFFECTING MRS. SHEEHY.

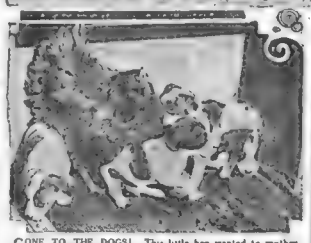
PICNIC STUFF! Treasurer Higgins of Harvard senior class and his bag of "gold"—just $200—collected from lowly frosbies in annual frolic in front of Widener Library. The 1925 class didn't come across with enough "jack" so they didn't have their photographs taken.

A LITTLE JAUNT! Dan O'Leary "doing his stuff" on a little hike of 300,000 miles said, "Howdy, Boston"—then good by. Then hit for New Hampshire. Dan is 81, but feels like 21.

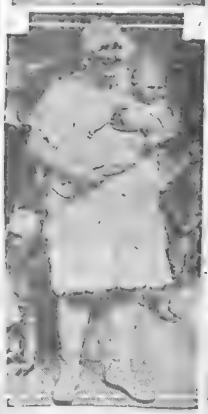
LISTENING TO THE "FIVE-CENT FARE ONE-STEP!" Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago and Mayor Curley are both enthusiastic radio fans, probably one of the reasons they both are radio enthusiasts is the possibility of a five cent fare in their respective cities.

CHOP SUEY A La Emerson! These little maids of old China are none other than young girls of the Emerson College Menorah Society, who will act all over the place at Whitney Hall, Brookline, on next Thursday night. On the left Ruth Cummings and Esta Le Rol Bernett, and on the right, Mary A. Borax, author of one of the two plays that will be produced. The proceeds will go toward the Emerson Endowment Fund and Jewish War Relief.

UNDER COVER—A smart one, too! Ribbon joined with gold braid, forms the charming crown of this dull blue hat of Summerish tendency. The blue canton crepe dress forms an ideal motif for the chapeau. (Underwood)

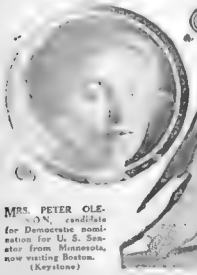


GONE TO THE DOGS! This little hen wanted to mother something so it adopted a litter of pups and bars their mother from caring for them. Owned by Mrs. Maude Switzer of Oakley, O. (International News Reel).



IT DOESN'T REQUIRE AN EXTENSION COURSE to appreciate the Advantages of This One-Man Ladder! It is carried on a trailer and can be quickly raised into position by one man. Heretofore at least six men were required on a ladder of this type. Invented by Herbert J. Hopkins of the San Francisco fire department (International News Reel).

ARTFUL! Miss Harvey Morgan of Worcester, whose perfect lines will be reduced to marble and transferred to the American Building in the coming Brazilian Exposition in Rio de Janeiro. The selection was made by a committee of artists.



MRS. PETER OLESON, candidate for Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator from Minnesota, now visiting Boston. (Keystone)

SOME BABIES! They come big and cute out Ocean Park way, California, which has just held its first baby parade. Here we have first prize winners in their class. The ample lady is not exactly a lady. She's a "he." (International News Reel).

NAVY HAS A STRONG TRACK SQUAD

This is the first of the college track meet "dope" sheets to be prepared by Charles I. Parker, the Boston American's college sports editor and expert. Here goes.

The Cornell-Penn meet will appear tomorrow, the Dartmouth-Columbia meet on Thursday and the Harvard-Yale meet on Friday. He will also discuss the Maine intercollegiate and the Eastern Intercollegiate championship.

Parker picked two winners last week. Check him up for yourself this week.

Midget Smith Signs to Battle Edwards at the Arena A. C.

Midget Smith, one of the greatest bantams who ever drew on a glove, will oppose Danny Edwards the sensational little colored boxer, in the main event at the Boston Arena next Monday night under the auspices of the Arena A. C.

Edwards is in Boston and is training for the bout. Smith will come to town Thursday night.

In December, nine days after Pete Herman decisively bested Abe Friedman here in Boston, Smith hoisted Herman a la-la-ing.

Smith has also bested Young Montreal and held Joe Lynch to a draw.

KRAMER QUITS THE BICYCLE TRACK

Frank Kramer of Newark, N. J., veteran middle champion, has announced his retirement from the game. Kramer, who has been a star for many years, has decided to quit the game while he is still on top. He has been a great favorite with the fans and his decision to retire will be a disappointment to many.

The veteran sprinter went down to defeat several times before Willie Hamilton, a new star, although Kramer won the second race of the series. Hamilton, a veteran of Monmouth Park, Jersey City and Newark, is a great favorite with the fans and his victory over Kramer was a popular one.

The loss of Kramer will be a great disappointment to the fans, who have been looking forward to the series for months. He has been a great favorite with the fans and his retirement will be a great loss to the game. He has been a great favorite with the fans and his retirement will be a great loss to the game.

CONWAY WAS RIGHT AGAIN; SHADE LICKED PAUL DOYLE

COAST STAR SMASHES WAY TO VICTORY

By JACK CONWAY

Dave Shade smashed his way to a victory over Paul Doyle at the Boston Arena after ten rounds of hard battling. The Californian was obliged to display all of his remarkable ability as a boxer and heavy punching power in order to gain the honors.

Six rounds went to Shade and four to Doyle. The latter didn't show up very well in the early part of the bout, but he took a big step toward finishing with a rush by staging a hard fight in the last round.

Two knockdowns, one in the second and one in the third round, were the big features of Doyle's victory. A left hook to the jaw was the winning wallop in each instance.

For a while it looked as though the Shade would weather the storm. He came courageously to the front after Doyle had floored him twice in the second round. Shade was groggy for a few seconds after the second knockdown, but he managed to weather the storm.

Doyle went out for the fight in the final round. He rushed Shade to the ropes and was about to give him a severe beating when the gong sounded.

DOYLE RALLIED IN SIXTH.

Doyle rallied at this point in the battle and won the round. Shade had Doyle in distress in the fifth round, but he allowed too much time to elapse before he followed up his advantage.

SHADE WAS THE AGGRESSOR.

The California boxer was the aggressor throughout the bout. He was determined to give Doyle a beating and he came near doing so. Doyle was groggy during four rounds, but he showed gameness and willingness to mix it with Shade. He was unable to withstand the punishing wallops he took from Shade.

Shade showed a lot of cleverness in the ring. He was fast on his feet and he displayed a good left jab. He was the cleaner hitter of the two, and his punishing left hook to the jaw did the damage.

Doyle was unable to solve the style of the Californian. He was unable to land a solid punch on his opponent's head. He was groggy during four rounds, but he showed gameness and willingness to mix it with Shade. He was unable to withstand the punishing wallops he took from Shade.

FLOUNDERS AROUND RING.

Doyle appeared to be having a lot of trouble keeping on his feet and floundered around the ring in a helpless manner.

The bout was the principal event of a special boxing show staged by the Boston Arena management. Doyle is a Boston boxer who has been fighting in the Hub for the past few years. He is a clever boxer and has been matched with many of the best boxers in the game. He was matched with Jimmy Lackam in his last bout.

Shade was given the decision over Lackam after the latter had been floored twice in the second round. Lackam was groggy during the entire bout, but he managed to stay the limit.

Shade will be matched with the winner of the Doyle-Lackam bout in the near future.

KELLY SCORES K. O.

Harbone Kelly was handed a setback by Jimmy Lackam of Framingham, who took the place of Nick Piatelli on the program. Kelly was knocked out in the second round.

LIGHT RESULTS

At Lansdowne, Eddie Jones knocked out Gundman Penwill, one round.

At Pittsfield—Young Nelson defeated Jud Pershing, ten rounds.

The Tech track team is hoping for pleasant weather on Saturday afternoon.

On that day it clashes with the Navy athletes at Annapolis, and the pleasant weather the Tech men hope for is about the only pleasant thing they have in prospect, for if the Middies live up to their past performances they will administer to the Engineers a much sounder licking than the latter sustained at Harvard's hands last Saturday.

The Middies already have whipped Harvard and Johns Hopkins, and have proved conclusively they have one of the best dual teams in the country, whereas Tech's [illegible] while it may pile up an appreciable total of points in the annual New England Intercollegiates, appears to have anything but a winning dual meet on its hands.

Last performances of Middies representatives indicate Hudson, Navy's star hurdler, can run the hurdles a few seconds faster than Tech's men in the 880 and one-mile; inches and, in some events, feet, better than Coach Kanuly's men in the high jump, broad jump, pole vault, shot put, javelin throw and discus throw and sufficiently close to Tech representatives in the dashes to threaten Tech's chances of winning there.

And to make it all the tougher not only one man in each event has shown such superiority but in some cases two and others three to the event.

Several Tech Athletes Likely to Improve on Their Work

Several of the Tech athletes are likely to improve upon their work against Harvard. Howe, the sprinter, has not recovered from a severe cold, and one or two others not in top form against the Crimson, will be found as serious contenders for honors at Annapolis, but Coach Kanaly will prove himself a wonder if, in the space of this week, he can add the speed, strength or skill to his charges that will be necessary for them to nose out their Middie rivals.

Curtis, the Navy's representative on the recent Olympic team, a man the Engineers must face in both the 880 and the one mile runs, and Curtis is a pretty tough proposition to beat at either distance.

Huckins and Hudson, both of whom took the measure of the Harvard hurdlers who recently licked the Engineers, are the Navy men who will confront Blodgett and Chittick on Saturday, and the latter's chances cannot be considered bright.

Pullen of Navy Jumps 7 Inches Further Than Dipple.

In the broad jump Pullen of the Navy leaped seven inches further than Dipple of Tech last Saturday; in the high jump, Taylor of the Navy was a fraction better than Merrill of Tech; in the pole vault, McLean of the Navy was 11¾ inches better than Sheldon of Tech; in the hurdles, Leggett of the Navy was a full foot and seven inches better than Tonon of Tech; in the shot put, Carney of the Navy was two feet, five and three-quarters inches better than Minnick of Tech; and in the discuss throw, Clapp of the Navy was sixteen feet, three inches better than Minnick of Tech.

This array of probable first place winners, together with Marshall and Strycker of the Navy, possible first place winners in the dashes, and Foss in the 440, Tammany in the 880, Hurd in the mile, Yong in the two mile, Opie and Johnstone in the high jump; Sweeton and Richard in the broad jump; Huckens in the pole vault; Dodge in the shot put, Birthright in the javelin and Adair in the discus throw, all ready to pick up seconds and thirds, or slip into an unexpected first, form a much too difficult combination for Tech to defeat.

The accompanying table shows the Navy to the front, 79 points to 47.

KRAMER QUITS THE BICYCLE TRACK

Frank Kramer of Newark, N. J., former world's champion bike sprinter and one of the athletic marvels of the age, has ridden his last race. This remarkable rider of twenty-three years of bike campaigning finds it so hard to get in condition that he is ready to hang up his wheel.

The veteran sprinter went down in defeat Sunday before Willie Spencer in a sprint series at Newark, although Kramer won the second heat. After the race Kramer, in conversation with Manager Nat Butler of the Revere track, said that his failure to reach the proper condition means that he is done as a high class rider.

Butler says Kramer appeared greatly depressed and yet, according to Nat, Spencer beat Kramer by a scant foot in the final heat.

The loss of Kramer would be a tremendous one to the bike game. No rider in the history of the sport has had such a following as the lantern-jawed Newark veteran. Kramer won the national amateur championship twice and turned professional when only eighteen years old. He was the world's champion in 1912. Plenty of sleep and abstinence from smoking is Kramer's recipe for athletic longevity.

NEWTON HAS CHANCE TO BREAK SUBURBAN TIE

By FRED C. LANE.

Howard Whittemore, premier hurler of Newton High, will be sent to the mound by Coach Allie Dickinson today to stop any further losses on the part of the Garden City nine. Newton plays the dangerous Medford team at the Fulton street grounds in what promises to be the most desperate battle yet staged by any schoolboy teams.

First place in the Suburban League, which Newton now shares with Somerville, will be relinquished by the former if they lose to Medford today. For that reason Coach Dickinson, with his back against the wall, will send his best performer to the hilltop to score a win over Medford.

This contest, which was originally scheduled for Wednesday, has been put forward a day in order that Coach Mansfield may take his squad to the Holy Cross Harvard baseball game tomorrow.

Big Charles Odams, the best that has come out of Medford in some years, will be the choice of Coach Mansfield, who is more than anxious to win this game and tie up for first place.

Medford Will Go into Top Tie by Win Today.

Medford is in third place with two wins and a loss. Should they win, Newton will drop into third place and Medford will tie up with Somerville for the first place. Odams needs but the average fielding to pin a loss on the Newton batters. Whittemore is in fine fettle after his week's rest, but he will have to be at his best, for Medford has a bunch of hard hitters.

Somerville High will also get the supreme test today when they meet Waltham at the Welch City. Coach Ayer will send Danny McFayden, pride of the Suburban League, against Coach Jack O'Leary's charges.

Jim Hanney, Waltham pitching ace, will be sent to turn back the Somerville batters. Unless they have improved with the blustering in the past three weeks, his task of keeping the hits scattered will be easy. Somerville is very weak with the bat. It is this fact alone that will prevent them from winning the Suburban League title.

Boston Latin is playing at Quincy today, and the Warren avenue boys are due for a big surprise. They have a mighty fine team at Quincy this year, possessed of ample hitting power. A glance at the scores of their past games will uphold this statement.

Eddie Harris, leading Latin School hurler is an in-and-outer, who may pick today as being his best. Should he decide otherwise, his turn on the mound will be limited.

BOWDOIN FAVORITE FOR MAINE STATE MEET

Waterville, Me., May 9.—The track teams of Bowdoin, Bates, University of Maine and Colby will meet Saturday at Waterville in the annual Maine intercollegiate championships, and since the disbarment of four of Colby's stars on account of scholarships differences it looks as though Bowdoin will win the championship, with Bates second, Maine third and Colby bringing up the rear

Bowdoin has a well balanced team and ought to score in every event except the mile and two-mile runs. The weight men—Tootell, Wagg and Nason—will undoubtedly garner most of the points in those events and with Small and the Bishop brothers will score heavily in the jumps and pole vault.

Bates is strong in all of the runs from the dashes to the two-mile run, and with Landers, Archibald, Sanella, Buker and McGinley will score heavily in these events, but in the field events and hurdles is weak and can only hope for Luce to score some points in the discus and Ross to get a third in the hammer throw.

The University of Maine has no first class men and will do well to win a first place. In Thomas it has a fair sprinter and Lawrence is a fair quarter-miler. Ackley will score in the high jump and Webb and Bishop ought to fight it out for third place in the discus while Strout is gathering in second place in the hammer and Cohen is fighting for first honors to the shot put.

Webster, Ames, McKeenan and Herrick are good distance men and may score in the mile and two mile. Ames has the best chance and will bear watching in the mile if Buker of Bates elects to confine his efforts to the two-mile run. Dunn is Maine's best hurdler, but is not considered good enough to beat Hardy of Bowdoin in either of the timber topping events.

The backbone of Colby's scoring power was broken when her stars were declared ineligible, and the only events in which the Waterville Collegians are expected to score points are in the dashes, in which Heron is good enough to win third.

If Young's leg is right he will score a couple of point's in the hurdles. Kemp ought to get a second in the pole vault, and Payne is good enough to finish behind Buker in the two-mile.

The outcome of the meet depends very much upon how Bates elects to use Buker, Sanella and Archibald if these men are doubled up, they might score enough points to beat Bowdoin, if their team mates spring a surprise and score enough points in some of the events in which they are not expected to do anything

But on the other hand Bowdoin is very strong in the quarter and half-mile runs, and Archibald and Sanella will have their hands full to beat Nason and Hunt of the Brunswick College in those events without bothering with any other.

The State meet is considered the biggest and most important athletic meet of the college year, and many surprises are sprung each year which usually upsets the dope. However it is hard to figure out how Bowdoin, with her well balanced team can be beaten out of premier honors

By JACK CONWAY

Dave Shade smashed his way to a victory over Paul Doyle at the Boston Arena after ten rounds of torrid battling. The Californian was obliged to display all of his remarkable ability as a boxer and heavy punching power in order to gain the honors.

Six rounds went to Shade and four to Doyle. The latter didn't show up very well in the early part of the tussle, but he made a bang-up finish which for a time threatened to overcome Shade's early lead.

Two knockdowns, one in the second and the other in the third round were the big factors in Shade's victory. A left hook to the jaw was the winning wallop on both occasions.

For a time it did not look as though Doyle would weather the storm. He finally managed to settle down and piled up many points himself by scoring with stinging left jabs and occasionally whirling his right to the jaw.

SHADE WAS THE AGGRESSOR.

The eight doped. Shade won as he predicted, but he was obliged to give his best efforts to do so. Doyle came like a thoroughbred race horse during the last five rounds of the tussle and whirled down the home stretch in fine style. His performance in the closing rounds was all the more remarkable when it is remembered that he was in very poor physical condition following the second knockdown.

Doyle shot out front in the first round. His jabbed very cleverly with his left and rocked enough right hand wallops to the body to give him a point margin. Shade countered with a few left jabs in this frame.

FLOUNDERS AROUND RING.

Doyle appeared to be having a lot of trouble keeping on his feet and floundered around the ring on several occasions.

The Shade surge started in the second session. Heavy left and right hand blows to the body forced Doyle back against the ropes. Doyle then turned quickly and darted towards the centre of the ring. Shade caught his opponent with a left hook to the jaw while the latter was off balance. Doyle flopped to the canvas, but was on his feet almost instantly and fought back hard. It was Shade's round.

SHADE SCORES ANOTHER.

Shade crashed over another knockdown in the third round. Once more a left hook to the jaw did the trick. Doyle was on his feet at the count of four. The Californian tried hard to get over a knockout but Doyle's ability as a boxer baffled him. This, very naturally, was Shade's round.

The fourth and fifth chapters also saw Shade's dazzling boxing skill and ability to count heavily with his left hook to the head gaining the honors.

DOYLE RALLIED IN SIXTH.

Doyle rallied at this point in the battle and won the sixth and seventh rounds. Shade was the aggressor, but he devoted too much of his time to trying to get over a knockout. He needlessly took many jabs on the jaw in an effort to open an opening for a winning wallop.

Shade apparently learned he was making a mistake for he changed his tactics in the eighth round and devoted more time to counting with left jabs to the head and body. The eighth was Shade's round.

Shade also managed to forge to the front in the ninth chapter.

Doyle gave the fans something to cheer about by forcing the milling in the tenth frame. He counted heavily with damaging blows to the head and body and had the round.

KELLY SCORES K.O.

Hambone Kelly was handed a setup in the person of one Tony Smith of Framingham, who took the place of Nixie Searks. Smith went out in a round.

Steve Gustin of South Boston won over Johnny Fox of Woburn in eight frames, while Young Donahue of the South End bested Frankie Ryan of Everett in eight sessions.

Kinney was referee, and handled the bouts well.

Pat Moran and Johnny Lackam were the judges.

There were 8,000 fans at the show.

FIGHT RESULTS.

At London—Soldier Jones knocked out Guardsman Pennill, one round.

At Pittsfield—Young Nelson defeated Kid Pershing, ten rounds.

2 More Wins For Jack Conway; It's Now 15 Straight

Jack Conway's record breaking string is still unbroken.

Dave Shade defeated Paul Doyle at the Arena, while Nate Siegal won over George Nebar at Lynn as Jack predicted they would.

'Tis now fifteen straight for Conway.

As for that little $25 parlay, it would now be $23,600.

What "bookie" could pay it?

So that you may have something to think over today, Jack has passed out the tip that Eddie Shevlin will win over Jack Perry at Worcester tonight.

Dedicate Tablet to Memory of "Banny"

Cincinnati, O., May 9—Before the game starts today the players of both Cincinnati and Boston clubs, John Heydler, president of the National League, and a lot of fans will participate in the dedication of a bronze memorial tablet to the late Frank C. Bancroft, for twenty-eight years business manager of the Reds.

This date was selected for the dedication, because it is the seventy-sixth anniversary of Banny's birth, and also because most of his life was passed near Boston.

His daughter, June, will unveil the tablet. The memorial was made possible through the donation of more than $1,000 by over 1,700 persons in this and other cities last Summer. Practically all big league players and officials gave a dollar each.

The tablet has been placed on one of the pillars in the Redland Field grandstand entrance, close to the spot where Banny stood for years and watched the crowds come in.

Crabs as Surgeons

THE surrender of limbs is common among crustaceans and crabs. When the limb is damaged the crab breaks it off near the base. A bandaging membrane closes up the wound and prevents bleeding. A new leg shoots out and soon hardens.

THE BEAUTY SHOP

A Story of Romance, Adventure and Laughs

A Sparkling Tale of Two Countries, in Which the Versatile Hero Wins a Bride Instead of a Fortune

READ THIS FIRST

Dr. Arbutus Budd, proprietor of "The Beauty Shop," trades a dozen bottles of perfume for a uniform belonging to the Duke of Sizerella. He uses his own face and the headgear thus acquired as a trademark. This trademark is recognized in Bolognia, Spain, as bearing the crest of the Sizerellas. Panatella, a hotelkeeper; Sobini, an undertaker, and Maldonado, a nobleman, want a Sizerella in Bolognia. Sobini goes to New York and persuades the doctor to claim the Sizerella estates. Budd, with his manager, Briggs, and his lovely ward, Anna, start for Spain with Sobini.

[The Beauty Shop," the play by Channing Pollock and Rennold Wolf, has been created into a photoplay by Cosmopolitan Productions, direction of Edward Dillon, scenario by Doty Hobart. It will be released as a Paramount Picture.]

Screen Version Novelized

By Jane McLean

PANATELLA shuddered: "Run along, my rose of Castile. Do not allow the Duke to see water in your delicate eyes."

Sizerella's first meal in the Hotel Perfecto was a marvel of provincial excellence. While Anna and Briggs toyed with the spaghetti at one table Sizerella and his friend Sobini faced each other at another.

"And now," said his lordship, "when do I inspect my cellars—when do I set foot inside the domains of my ancestors' spouk, Sobini, let me hear the worst."

"The time has come," began Sobini, copying the words of the Walrus, "when I must disclose to you the full extent of the heritage that awaits you."

"Go right ahead, Sobini; don't let any false feeling of modesty hold you back."

A cryptic smile overspread the undertaker's face as he leaned forward. "The castle, the grounds, the cellars, the ruins, the towers all are yours, he whispered, "but your real inheritance—"

"Ah," the doctor broke in, "you're coming to the inheritance tax."

Again that cryptic smile on the face of Sobini.

"All the treasures your ancestors once possessed," Sobini went on, "diamonds, rubies, priceless laces, tapestries, wines, acres on acres of Spanish onions—all these are as nothing to the gem of the collection—"

"Don't go on," said the doctor; "you said an ear full. If I can get all the little trifles you've enumerated I'll pass up what's coming—I'll make a present of it to you old dear."

Sobini made a positive head in a negative shake. "No, Excellency, all the trifles I have enumerated are yours."

"Hell," echoed the doctor.

"Flown squandered—annihilated—but the gem of the collection remains—thank the good Lord no Sizerella could give that away—it is entailed, as it were"—

"I'm all on edge," said the doctor, "spill it."

Not too Seriously

"The feud between the Sizerellas and the Maldonados—it is yours Excellency—yours till you die."

I beg your pardon, Sobini, but would I be offending your Spanish ideas of courtesy if I remarked that I have an aversion to feuds"

"Dear me, no," replied Sobini; "so long as you are here the feud is yours—you have come into your own, and the beauty of it all is that it will be with you till you die. However don't take it too seriously—you couldn't think of forcing your return until you get all that's coming to you—Spanish hospitality demands that of us" Sobini arose and strode away, the picture of gloom.

For a moment Dr. Budd was left alone with his thoughts, but only for a moment. He was conscious of being the centre of attraction, and his pride forbade him to assume it was because he sat in the centre of the room.

He was conscious, too, of the malevolent stare of a big man who passed frequently—a big man with curling mustaches sporting a charming little girl whom he addressed at Coca.

The martial Maldonado and his hated enemy, Dr. Budd, "Duke of Sizerella," with Coca and Cola, the lovely twins, who can hardly tell themselves apart.

He recognized her as one of the two girls he had seen dancing when he first sat down. His eyes followed the petite one as she clung to the arm of the big man. Dr. Budd sighed, rose from the table and walking with a majestic step betook himself to a small enclosure just outside the cafe, where rustic benches and fowering shrubs formed a delightful spot for a siesta.

He leaned against a trellis, and as he leaned there came to him a mite of loveliness; she looked at him and sighed.

"Baron, I feel so sorry for you," she said in Bolognian English.

Evidently she knew his rank. He made a baronial bow.

"Why the sorrow, little one? Haven't I a lot of things coming to me?"

"Yes; that's why I grieve. You are the last of the Sizerellas; you will always be the last of the Sizerellas."

Her sadness was inexplicable to the marquis.

"Of course I will; but what does that matter so long as I can bask in the sunlight of your smile".

Before he could finish, Anna followed by Briggs, interrupted the harmony of the duet

"Why, Guardy!" she cried. "Why is this thus? We saw you go out and thought you were in the bar. Don't you feel well"

Warning Finger

The doctor held up a warning finger. "Not a word; I don't want this to get into the society columns. Obey me and I may let you and Briggs get married, after all."

The two young people made no secret of their exultation nor did they wait for explanations of the doctor's changed attitude. But if their arrival was disconcerting to him it seemed even more so to the lovely bit of femininity at his side.

"What is that female person to you?" she asked with a flash of her dark eyes that boded no good for Anna Budd.

"Pish tush, my dear, she's only an American—she lives on Fifth avenue, where the girls never get jealous—but don't let's talk about her. Tell me, are all these decorations in my honor, these flowers and wreaths and festoons—anyone would think there was going to be a funeral, no se verdad?"

"There is; yes, there is," she sighed again as she looked at him.

"What a quaint idea," laughed the doctor. "Whose?"

"Ah, that remains to be seen—we are not quite sure yet, but we'll know soon after sundown—that a when the big duel takes place."

"How interesting; I wonder if I could get a ticket. I'd go without supper to see a duel."

"You will need no ticket—and you need not hurry—eat a good supper, for the duel will not begin until after you arrive."

"How polite you Spaniards are," murmured the doctor: "will you excuse me while I call my manager? He dotes on duels."

But Briggs had already heard the news from Sobini with whom he now appeared. "Hey, there, Briggs, old top, there's to be a sausage sliced after six," cried the Doctor

"And Sobini," he added, "I want to thank you for bringing me here."

"Do not thank me, Excellency," said the gloomy Sobini, "after you get yours I'll get mine; business is business."

"Do I get crowned?" queried the doctor, "is that part of my welcome"

An ecstatic grin spread over the face of Sobini as he replied: "Excellency they will crown you good."

Briggs broke in: "Say, doctor, I've been nosing around and I don't quite get the idea of this welcome. I think there's an Arab in the woodpile somewhere."

WHEN A GIRL MARRIES

By ANN LISLE

Copyright, 1922 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

SOMETHING in the girl's face convinced me that I must go immediately. So, rushing over to get Evvy's little blue car—which seemed to be earning its board and keep splendidly—I started off for the wholesale part of town.

As I drove down I found myself returning to the problem of Dick West and Dad Lee, and the possibilities for and against their being in town. Suddenly I found myself mentally by the scruff of the neck and delivered myself a lecture.

Worrying over the problem won't help Jim. I never had a chance to fight the fire when it appears to be another session of a call from Dick West. I can't undo the temporary money difficulty into which I've been plunged by losing the rent of my apartment. But I can make money to take its place. Not, however, by trying to run my business and Jim's as well. Mabel Sierra was left in charge because Jim felt her competent to manage his affairs.

This much is clear There's no way I can so sanely and effectively serve Jim as by making a success of the thing I've undertaken

If the problem of Dick threatens me I'll have to be ready to grapple straight with it But I can't do this by having a fettering business dragging at me and clawing me down to ruin I've invited by neglecting the job I've undertaken

The Derringforth shoe plant assigned me to it was a little place in a run-down neighborhood, which may have been good back in the days when the father of the present owner established his name in the world of business. But Mr. Derringforth amazed me even more than did the second rate looking little shop in which I found myself installed.

My first impression had been that he was a man of great nervous force and energy, but now I was astonished at the shaken appearance of the gray-faced man who sat at the great mahogany desk in the private office. Power and that indomitable quality I'd sensed in Mr Derringforth at our first meeting were still discernible. But he seemed to be carrying a burden almost too heavy for him

"How do you do, Mrs. Harrison? You're very prompt," he said, with a certain brusquity.

Another Blow

"Miss May gave me the impression that you preferred to put about the first requisite from me and for you," I said, striving for a reassuring and reasonable tone of atmosphere which fairly choked me

"Yes things are in a pretty bad way down here. I'm just about half an inch this side of an assignment," said the man, deep-voiced. "I see one possibility—one chance of a way out. I own five retail stores. I thought maybe a twenty per cent. investment might help me over. The banks are calling in my paper I can't get a cent. But I must have cash. A little new newspaper publicity and I've never done a lot of advertising. Will you swing this for me?"

"Of course," I replied "I haven't done any newspaper advertising, but if you'll call in your publicity man we'll plan out a campaign at once"

I have been compelled to let him go," confessed the man in a voice that sounded almost stricken.

"Then we'll see this thing through, anyhow" I said more brave than I felt

First Advertisement

So we flung ourselves into the game and at the end of a month's time we had looked out our first advertisement in the campaign intended to save the Derringforth Shoe Company. As we finished the last line Mr. Derringforth glanced out from his gone sidelight a shade graver than before

"Of course, you know I'm counting on you to finance this, Mrs Harrison. You're taking a chance, but I'm sure it's safe will bring in lots of fresh cash and then everything will be jim-dandy."

"My business now is to run my business on a queer basis of taking the credit and letting the cash go," I said, with a seeming lightness, back of which there was a clearly defined desire that Mr. Derringforth should understand that I'd mutual basis for carrying accounts on a "Pay tomorrow plan"

"Do you mind extending me this courtesy?" he asked, with a trace of asperity. "I've never done any newspaper advertising—which means that I'd either have to go to some trouble establishing charges and credits with the papers or else pay spot cash. And I can't now. All the merchants are having a shaky time of it owing to the banks calling in our paper."

"Yes, I've heard that before," I remarked tentatively, venturing on to add "It wouldn't be easy for a new concern like mine to do cash borrowing, you know"

"Of course you won't have to," he replied, searching my face as he spoke. "You've some pretty good records And there aren't any real expenses connected with a business like yours

A Dollar Goes To Somerville

Dream Editor:—

I dreamed I received a package which was delayed by the war in it was a small clock. When I opened the back I found a bottle of perfume. Please tell me what this means. Ruth K.

Somerville.

To be the recipient of a clock in one's dream indicates a rise in social position and the perfume is also a good omen, for this signifies that you will shortly receive news as pleasant as the odor of the perfume.

OTHER INTERESTING LETTERS.

Dear Editor

I have often dreamed of being left alone on the earth which sailed away among the other planets, at each of which I landed and explored. Why do I dream this over and over again?

CHARLES H. H.

Marblehead.

I wonder if you are interested in mechanical things? Because your dream indicates that you are to make a discovery that will be of much use to mankind in general.

Dream Editor:

I have dreamed at least a dozen times in my life that I was being chased by the Devil, and when he caught me he tickled me until I was exhausted, which dream quite unnerves me.

Boston. J. G. Brant.

Tickled almost to death were you! Perhaps you will be when you know that this predicts benefits from some person in the public eye.

Dream Editor

The other night I dreamed that my mother, who is dead, and one of my dearest friends were looking at me and saying to each other that I was a good girl This dream has stayed in my mind, and will you please tell me what it means?

Newton, Mass G. L. M.

This indicates that your mother, who is watching over you, approves of your friendship and that it is a true one, and that the friend in question will always remain so.

Peggy O'Neil, of Fitchburg, who dreamed about going to the country when you did not want to go. This indicates a speedy proposal of marriage and that you will be unsettled about your answer

George B., of Everett, who dreamed he was giving the wrong change to a party who was paying him a bill, should take this dream to be a warning that he is to lose some small bit of personal property

Dream Editor:

Last night I dreamed that I was again in uniform and that an officer patted me on the back and said I was one of the first to go "Over There." And he pressed some money into my hand. I didn't want to take it because my sleeve was torn. I was really one of the first to go over.

J. V. V.

Lawrence. Regular Army.

To be patted on the back by a superior officer predicts strength and prosperity, but the money indicates some small annoyance to come.

Dream Editor:

I dreamed I was running a race with a colored man and beat him. What would this indicate?

A. H. M.

Alston

Sorry, but this dream predicts a disappointment in the near future

DAILY SHORT STORY—A LOVER'S TRICK

By A. M. Crawford

"I" looks like the very hand of fate, Floyd. You're probably laughing, but to me that is exactly what it seems to be. I do love you. I want you to know that, but if you had been one of a family of five girls and had seen your mother struggle to try to give them a good start and, if you had seen her scrimp and save and get along on nothing for herself year after year, you would be careful about—about having the same experience. For marriage, more often than not, does mean children." Jean flushed painfully. "I'm telling you all this because I want you to see the situation from my standpoint

Called It Fate

"I'm trying," said the brown-eyed young fellow, quietly. "Now, this visit of yours to the Goodsons in Pittsburgh' Fate, you called it. Wh—"

"Well, this—this love of ours. Yes, keep talking of an early marriage. You're awfully young, and you have just started out in the business world. You're a rising young architect, of course; but just now you're an employe of Mr. Bartlett, and it is a known fact that he never pays princely salaries to juniors."

"A hundred and fifty a month"—

"The Goodsons are rich. While I am visiting them I will likely be thrown in with well-to-do men. If one of them should like me well enough to propose marriage, and has a straightforward, manly sort of fellow, I'm going to think a long time before I turn him down."

Floyd reminded her gently. "But remember, I haven't given up hope."

The unbelievable happened! Jean found herself surrounded with eligible young men as soon as she had made her first appearance in Pittsburgh. Then on Sunday, she sent a special delivery letter to Floyd, who had strictly enjoyed his promise not to write a line to her while she was gone.

"Have mother wire for me to go home," read the startling sentence at the beginning of her special.

Monday night, just one week from the time she had left, a very different Jean rolled into the little station. She put up her face for his kiss like a little child when Floyd entered the coach a mile from town, at the pump station. She held to his arm convulsively while he carried her two bags to the roadster.

A Quiet Little Talk

She was apparently so bewildered that she failed to notice that he helped her into a brand new

"Are you still—still free?" He nodded an assent. "I was so—so happy at first. The luxuries and attention went to my head like wine. Then I began to see things and to hear things that made me suspicious. The Goodsons aren't happy at all. She's rather young and very beautiful. He's old, a sort of tragic figure to me, a gray old man, hair and heart, too—gray, because the life has gone from it.

"She's in love with another man and she—she tried to make her husband think she was jealous of him—even with me—her guest—because she wants to be rid of him, wants some real reason to cause the break between them. She's in love with his young partner

"Money, the only thing I thought brought happiness, more than anything else—it has only brought idleness and time for discontent in that case"

"Dear," he said, with a little catch in his voice, "we are going to be able to manage very well for our family. Dad left me a comfortable fortune, but I came away from my home town and settled here because I wanted to go on my own, as you once said, and not on family name and money.

"I wouldn't tell you before, because—because I was silly enough to want you to love me for my own sake. Well have enough to give mother some of the things she's always been denied"——

"And to send our—our daughters to college," said Jean, tears of happiness splashing down her nose

Weak After Wasting Illness—Wincarnis Restores Strength

Providence Lady Tells Experience

Miss M. Sutcliffe of 45 Daniel Avenue, Providence, R.I. and several members of her family greatly benefited.

Mother recovering from severe illness; brother-in-law down with Influenza.

Miss Sutcliffe's Statement:

"I found Wincarnis very beneficial for weakness and when in a run-down condition It is several years ago since I first tried the preparation and now whenever I need a tonic I turn to Wincarnis.

Sometimes are my mother was in need of a tonic after recovering from a severe illness. I bought her a large bottle of Wincarnis which soon gave her back her strength.

Also my brother-in-law, who not long ago was down with Influenza, is now taking your Wincarnis as a restorative and it is doing him a lot of good.

I always recommend Wincarnis to anyone I know who is in need of a good tonic.

Wincarnis is sold by all first-class druggists.

FINANCE —AND— BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

Initiative, dynamic energy, fearlessness, were characteristics of the two big Americans, each a leader in his field, who passed on during the week-end, Henry P. Davison and John H. Patterson.

* * *

Both started humbly, both had rough going early in life. Both had extraordinary determination and tenacity. Both were instrumental in making their organizations the foremost of their kind. Both became relatively wealthy, but neither had money making as his main goal.

Both spent their latter years largely in trying to do things constructively helpful to their fellow mortals. Both leave promising young sons—one of Davison's sons recently entered the House of Morgan, while Mr. Patterson's only son was made the president of the National Cash Register Company last year.

* * *

It was Davison's courage which first brought him into public notice in New York city. It was the confidence he had in the work in New York he walked the streets in vain. Several years later his unflagging perseverance won him a minor position in a small bank. Some time afterwards, when a paying vacancy occurred, he presented a check drawn to the order of The Almighty for a million dollars and at the same instant presented a gun at Davison's head.

Davison coolly began to read the check very deliberately and attentive, at the same time starting to count out money. The bank's special policeman, standing around when he heard the teller's loud voice, took for the situation at a glance, crept behind the madman and in a flash had him disarmed.

The day this incident was published in the newspapers the directors of another bank had a meeting, and one of them remarked this was "the kind of a young man they ought to have. They got him. And Davison made good so notably that from then on he stepped up and up the ladder until he became recognized as the ablest partner the late J. P. Morgan ever discovered.

* * *

Sunday's newspapers told how Davison was smiling and cheerful as he stepped into the room to undergo what proved to be the fatal operation. He exhibited the same cheerful courage when they operated on last year. Sometimes an anecdote throws a whole flood of light on a man's make-up. How's this one?

As Mr. Davison lay on the operating table for his first operation one of the nurses approached with a razor to shave the hair from the back of his ear, where incision was to be made. The physician smilingly relieved the nurse of the razor and said: "I think I'll do this job myself." "That reminds me of a story," said the patient, sitting up. "Have you time to listen to it?" "Go ahead," he was told.

"A friend of mine, a mining engineer, got into a small Western town with about four days' growth of beard on his face. He wanted a barber, but was told there was none. 'Well, I never shaved myself in my life. What am I going to do?' he asked. 'Dunno,' said the clerk; 'I might find somebody. Got to think it over.' Almost an hour later a tall, cadaverous-looking man entered, carrying a black bag.

"'I have come to shave you,' said he. 'I'le down on the bed there.'

"'What'll I lie down for?' said the guest. 'Lie down stranger,' said the voice. The mining engineer had one of the smoothest shaves in his life. He arose, gave the caller a fat fee and said 'Will you gratify an old stranger's curiosity? Why did you make me lie down?'

"'Because,' said the visitor, 'I never shaved a live man before. I am the village undertaker.'"

* * *

Just as Theodore N. Vail found the telephone little more than a toy and developed it into a great necessity, so John H. Patterson found the cash register little more than a toy and made it an adjunct of business throughout the civilized world. Like most of America's business pioneers, Mr. Patterson in the old days played the game according to the rules then in vogue. Cutthroat competition was rampant. In order to survive, one had to undersell without gloves. The lower court found Patterson, as it found many other great American business leaders, guilty of practices which years later ceased to be countenanced.

The higher court, however, did not confirm the finding, and in order to save its face, the Department of Justice begged Mr. Patterson to arrive at a compromise settlement of the whole matter. He reluctantly consented to do this, and one of his poignant regrets ever after was that he hadn't seen the thing through to a finish because he felt that unjustified stigma had been cast upon him. When there was withdrawal talk of asking a pardon for him, he indignantly denounced the movement.

* * *

Mr. Patterson's chief concern during the last decade or more has been to do all within his power to bring about more harmonious relations between employers and workers, particularly through making the environment and working conditions healthful, attractive and beautiful. He has told me repeatedly that he regarded the majority of employers as laundry sheep and laundry as cold-blooded attitude towards workers.

Stocks Weak in New York at Noon; Call Money 4%; Exchange Improves

PRICE DROP IS A GENERAL MOVEMENT

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

The New York market was weak at noon, losses being general and, in fact, covering most of the list. After an irregular start the movement was upward for an hour, but in the last half of the morning demand slackened and the short selling which depressed prices yesterday was again a dominating factor. Doubts as to Genoa results caused no such uncertainty around Wall Street that it has had some effect upon the stock market. Trading was fairly active. Call money opened at 4 per cent. Foreign exchange rates showed some improvement.

Morning losses did not much exceed two points at the most. There were a few fair losses in low grade issues as the biggest losses. But most stocks did not fluctuate far. The market was orderly. Corn Products was as prominent as any issue. It dropped 2¾ to 99, the first time it has been below par of late. Reading advanced 2 to 69¾, a new high for 1922.

Among largest losses were Mexican Petroleum, off 1 at 125¾; Tobacco Products, 1¼ at 66¾; Gulf States Steel, 1¼ at 82; Standard Oil of New Jersey, 2 at 241; United Fruit, while 1¾ at 71; Computing Tabulating, 1¼ at 71, and American Locomotive, 1 at 114.

Gains included Barndall A, ½ at 45¾, after selling as high as 45¾; Coca Cola, 2¾ at 58, after selling at 58¾, and Royal Dutch, at 63¾.

Oils ruled weak during the forenoon. Steels were strong for awhile. Rails were steady. New Haven was active and ranged from 29¼ to 29⅞.

Rather Erratic At the Opening

By W. S. COUSINS.
Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 9.—The stock market was somewhat irregular and erratic at the opening today. Rails and steel stocks were inclined toward higher levels, the motors and rails were somewhat unchanged, while the industrials sold off on initial transactions. Barnsdall A jumped 1¾ points to 45¾ on the first sale; Houston Oil was 1¾ higher at 48. Texas Oil and Sinclair were slightly higher; Mexican Petroleum opened one point lower at 125¾, and dropped on the next sale to 125¾. Coaden and Middle States Oil were also slightly higher. U. S. Steel was unchanged at 98; Gulf States advanced ¾ to 83¾; Bethlehem Steel B declined 1¾ at 73¾ and Vanadium gained ¾ at 47¾.

In the railroad shares the most active issue was New Haven at 29⅜, Pere Marquette at 21. The motor stocks showed little change, Studebaker selling off ¼ at 119¾, Maxwell and Oil of California lost one point at 111¾.

Stocks were freely offered in the first fifteen minutes and prices in the whole list were inclined to sag.

Bonds Reflect the Change in Money

By MONROE ROBERTS.
Copyright, 1922, Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, May 9.—Some idea of the change which has taken place in the money and investment market may be obtained from a comparison of the bonds that the Liberty block offered last Summer, on which the coupon was 3½ per cent, did not command par readily. It was over three months before the books were finally closed on the issue. The next to the last offering, on which the coupon was 3 per cent, went much better. The new series of $7,000,000 4½ per cents were all sold yesterday. An underwriting syndicate composed of Hibler, Peabody & Co., the Guaranty Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co. and Gregory & P. Murphy & Co. has been formed to underwrite a new issue of $10,000,000 Interstate R. T. Co. 6 per cent. ten-year notes to be issued under the refunding plan of Interborough-Manhattan relations.

Hibler, Read & Co. are offering Province of New Brunswick bonds to the amount of $2,000,000, consisting of $1,500,000 serial refunding bonds, due in seventeen years, which are offered at a price to yield 4.15 per cent, and $500,000 of 6,000 refunding 5 per cent. bonds, due serially from 1923 to 1962, at a price to yield approximately 5.10 per cent.

COPPER METAL MARKET FIRMER

The Boston market was irregular at the opening and throughout the morning, with trading quiet and the price range narrow. Coppers were heavy, although the good metal market is firmer. Producers are now asking 13¾ cents a pounds and it is stated that so much was sold for 13 cents yesterday that offerings at that figure have been withdrawn. The market was featureless as far as individual issues were concerned. Ventura was active and a fraction lower. Inland Creek advanced from 1¼ to 1⅝ on the small block offered last Summer, on which the coupon was 3½ per cent, did not command par readily. It was over three months before the books were finally closed on the issue. The next to the last offering, on which the coupon was 3 per cent, went much better. The new series of $7,000,000 4½ per cents were all sold yesterday. An underwriting syndicate composed of Hibler, Peabody & Co., the Guaranty Co., J. & W. Seligman & Co. and Gregory & P. Murphy & Co. has been formed to underwrite a new issue of $10,000,000 Interstate R. T. Co. 6 per cent. ten-year notes to be issued under the refunding plan of Interborough-Manhattan relations.

Hibler, Read & Co. are offering Province of New Brunswick bonds to the amount of $2,000,000, consisting of $1,500,000 serial refunding bonds, due in seventeen years, which are offered at a price to yield 4.15 per cent, and $500,000 of 6,000 refunding 5 per cent. bonds, due serially from 1923 to 1962, at a price to yield approximately 5.10 per cent.

NEW ENGLAND INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

The Boston American every day publishes an up-to-the-minute review of industrial conditions throughout New England.

This will be found on the Financial page. Watch for the latest news of labor and capital received from the Boston American's special correspondents and investigators.

Industrial reports from Lowell, Fall River, Haverhill and Nashua, N. H., are more encouraging than for the Hamilton Manufacturing Company of Lowell opened its gates for the first time yesterday. The strikers are said about 300 returned to work. The mill agents declined to make a statement. Fall River advices show mill stocks advancing. In Haverhill the wood heel factories are doing a good business. Most of the men in this minor industry are employed, which is taken as a good augury for the whole shoe trade. In Nashua the hands who went on strike at the Nashua Gummed & Coated Paper Company plant rather than accept a wage cut have returned and Mill No. 2 of the company is running with a full force of workers.

In Pawtucket, R. I., the textile strikers have given the employers their police spending report to think about. They are posting the city with lists of strike-breakers. The strike-breakers are very naturally objecting and the hard-worked police are dashing from point to point tearing down the signs. In Lawrence the textile strikers are speeding up their picketing. The leaders of the "One Big Union" have issued the rallying call for a "new series of marches," as they term their picketing activities.

Fall River Mill Stocks Selling at Better Rates

Fall River, May 9.—There is a better feeling in mill stocks in this city. Stock in the Barnard Mill is reported sold at 113, an above mark three points over last week. Stocks in the Davis Mill have also advanced four points. Stock in the Sagamore Mill is offered at $340.

According to a report current in financial circles the recent business of the Sinclair Oil Refining Company has been taken over by the Atlantic Refining Company, of this city. The latter company has its plant in Tiverton, R. I.

There has been more new construction work started recently the first week of the current month than during any similar period this year.

Nashua Paper Plant Now On Full Time

Nashua, N. H., May 9.—Mill No. Two of the Nashua Gummed & Coated Paper Company is now running with full force of workers. On the first of April when a wage reduction was announced the workers walked out in protest and the mill closed for a ten-day period. The textile situation remains practically unchanged and 4,000 workers are idle. Picketing around the Nashua and Jackson Mills has increased.

Haverhill Shoe Trade Taking On Activity

Haverhill, May 9.—Business in the wood heel factories has taken a considerable advance and practically all workers are employed. The business coming into the heel plants is almost entirely domestic, export business having been dead for several months. The improvement of this type of business is regarded as indicating increased activity in the shoe manufacturing branch of the industry.

MILNE COMEDY OFFERED AT ST. JAMES

The stock company at the St. James took its turn at "The Great Broxop," the comedy by A. A. Milne, which was done by the Copley troupe last week. Mr. Milne wrote "Mr. Pim Passes By" and "The Dover Road" and "The Truth About Blayds," all of which were successful in New York during the past year. Hence the anxiety to do "Broxopp."

The piece, of course, is an English comedy of character. The St. James company is a good American stock company. When a New York producer wishes to send out an English comedy he goes out into Broadway and collects an armful of English actors, and he is all fixed. Our then actors get few chances to play British parts.

In doing "The Great Broxopp" the St. James folks went out of their class. With the exception of Viola Roach, they are not equipped to play English characters. Mark Kent, as Broxopp, was the nearest actor to get the humor that Mr. Milne would naturally expect for the character of Broxopp's nephew, but he didn't try very hard, except in makeup to play the surprising Cockney.

The piece is very moving and the ones not particularly bright. Even with a British company it wouldn't prove the reputation Milne has as "Mr. Pim." Florence Roberts, Walter Gilbert, Ann Mason and Ralph Remley gave earnest performances. Frank Charlton, as the aristocratic colonel, was most in character.

GORDON'S STRAND — An echo of surging passion, sweeping in the wide plains of the Argentine through the fascinating trivialities of pre-war Paris, into the bloodiest turmoil of the German invasion Northern France, was unfolded last night at Gordon's Strand Theatre, Upham's Corner, where "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is being shown.

GAYETY THEATRE—"The Ridiculous to the Sublime" is the title of a sensational but funny musical comedy that formed the plot of "Tit for Tat," the burlesque attraction at the Gayety Theatre yesterday. A gorgeously staged and delightful comical situations have been woven into a fascinating play. Helen Usher and George Nibbe are two of the company and they led joyous festival of fun that kept audiences in continuous laughter. Harris is the author of the piece and High Schubert composed the musical score—one worthy of a flashy musical production.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA — "Doc" Rice, world famous lightning change artist, supported by a brilliant company, was the star of "Doc," the headline act on the Orpheum program at Gordon Olympia theatre yesterday. The lightning change of fun, fads and fancy.

LILAC SQUARE OLYMPIA—Monograph soloist of country dance was the headline performance yesterday at Gordon's Lilac Square Olympia Theatre. Helene Greene, and he appeared in a novel musical act entitled "A Little Bit of Everything." Minnie presented a comedy act; Ulis and Lee won much applause with their singing act, William Brack and Company created quite audience many thrills with their acrobatic offering.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQUARE — Second week of the new Burlesque policy at Gordon's Central Sq. Theatre, Cambridge, is showing good audiences yesterday. The news of continuous performances has saved a big hit with all those who crowd the Cambridge thoroughfare Gordon's Central Square promises to become the centre of attraction for the Summer theatre goers.

lys That Remain

CONIAL THEATRE—Marilyn Miller, Leon Errol and Ziegfeld's "Sally with all its attendant splendor proving of the highest powers of magnets to draw theatre-goers to the Colonial Theatre, where it is its third week last evening.

TREMONT THEATRE—Dazzling kaleidoscopic of Avery Hopwood's farcing comedy, "The Gold Digs" began its concluding week at the Tremont Theatre last evening.

WILBUR THEATRE — Oscar Straus latest operetta, "The Last Waltz with Eleanor Painter reappeared in stellar role, started on its fourteen at the Wilbur Theatre last night.

PARK THEATRE—Davis' Classic production of Avery Hopwood's farcing comedy, "The Gold Digs" began its concluding week at the Tremont Theatre last evening.

MAJESTIC THEATRE — Oscar Straus latest operetta, "The Last Waltz," with Eleanor Painter reappeared in stellar role, started on its fourteen at the Wilbur Theatre last night.

SHUBERT THEATRE — Greatest credit due the Messrs. Shubert that, bringing back to the stage the Cohan success of Forty-five Minutes From Broadway," "The Chocolate Soldier," they vided such a brilliant cast as Ida Adair, Dorothy Dellar, Virginia O'Brien, Mildred Rogers, Virginia Eastman and John Duffy.

FOURTH THEATRE—"Ladies' Night" proved its acceptability to the Irish bath at the Plymouth Theatre last night before an audience filled every seat and thronged the aisles and even the rafters with the one of its laughter.

PARK THEATRE—Interest in Norman Leslie's latest production, "Smi Through," was unabated when yesterday's performances began second week of its showing at the Park Theatre. Capacity audiences filled the theatre throughout the afternoon and evening it was evident that the remarkable screen drama made a profound impression. Norma Talmadge has filled all past artistic efforts in thier latest creation, "Smilin' Through" tells a gripping story of love and pathos, romance and tragedy.

Written by Rupert Hughes.

"COME ON OVER," the Rupert Hughes-Goldwyn picture heading the bill at the Modern and Beacon Theatres this week, is a little delayed in showing. It should have been scheduled for the 17th of March. It is typically Irish in every sense of the word. The titles are in brogue; the leading characters are named Moyna Killiea and Shane O'Neale; and the only person who hasn't an Irish name, Mrs. Van Dusen, declares with a roll that do one could ever cut-dance Maggie Carmody-that-was.

FULL OF HUMOR.

However, despite the date, "Come On Over" provides excellent entertainment; for it is full of interest and humor. The plot is not over-heavy, rather the comedy, but it is peopled with such intensely human persons that their simple story is quite enough to hold the attention. It is, moreover, artistically produced.

Shane comes to America from County Clare, vowing to his Moyna that in a few weeks, when he has become a millionaire, he will "send for her out," which reminds us that when Rupert Hughes first wrote the story he called it "Sent For Out." Moyna, back in Ireland, hears that he has fallen in love with someone else.

ENDS IN IRISH JIG.

He, meanwhile, no sooner gets money saved up than he loses his job and has to start over again. Too, Judy Dugan has her eye on him. When Moyna is brought over to this country as a surprise for Shane, she arrives just in time to misunderstand things. It is all quite amusingly cleared up and the film ends with everyone—even the butler out in the hall—doing an Irish jig.

Colleen Moore could scarcely be improved upon since she is Moyna. She plays it with ease and with a clear understanding of the proper handling of the comic and pathetic moments. Ralph Graves does very well as Shane. He is not given the opportunities Miss Moore is and fails to make the impression she does. Almost any other actor, incidentally, might have done equally as well as Graves. The rest of the cast have been well chosen and give well rounded performances.

Story by Olga Printzlau. Directed by Maurice Campbell.

THE feature picture on the bill at the Modern and Beacon is Jack Reakirt picture featuring May McAvoy, "Through a Glass Window," which has been written especially for her by the Lasky scenarist, Olga Printzlau. This film is a new and improved version of Pollyanna. Miss McAvoy is seen as the "glad girl" on whom all the troubles fall in turn.

Fred Turner in her brother is sent to prison for stealing $5 to save her reputation. Then she loses her job. Then her mother goes blind. She has been the little daughter in "Coffee Pete's" quick lunch. When she loses her job she straightens her shoulders and starts a doughnut shop of her own. When her brother comes out of the reformatory she turns over the business to him and marries the Italian fruit man who has wooed her at intervals through the five years. Oh, and her mother regains her eyesight.

There is nothing in the least dramatic about the story. It is thickly coated with powdered sugar to hold any thrills. For the adventure of Pollyanna and her friends—and there are many—it is ideal. May McAvoy does so well as little Jennie Martin, the doughnut girl, that it is to be feared she may stick to this sort of role. The rest of the cast is adequate without being remarkable.

Actors' Fund Benefit

The annual Actors' Fund Benefit will be given at the Tremont Theatre next Friday afternoon, May 12th. The program, as it has been arranged by Daniel Frohman, in cooperation with the Association of Theatre Managers of Boston, will be a lengthy one and especially rich in artistic offerings.

Coming Events

TREMONT THEATRE—The seat sale begins today at the Tremont Theatre for the engagement of George M. Cohan, who appears personally in the role of the Vagabond in his production of the melodramatic travesty of Cora Dick Gantt's play, "The Tavern," which opens next Monday night. New York is the only other city in which Mr. Cohan has appeared in this role.

GAYETY THEATRE— Boston's program of Summer amusement has been much enhanced by the booking of Barney Gerard's stupendous burlesque production, "Follies of the Day," for the Gayety Theatre, beginning next week. This magnificent attraction was shown here recently and scored such a hit that hundreds of requests were received by the Gayety Theatre management for a return engagement of the show. Meanwhile "Follies of the Day" was sought by Broadway theatres for a Summer attraction. Mr. Gerard, the producer, finally consented to send the show to Boston for the early Summer and the Broadway presentation will be postponed because of the Boston booking.

'WHIRL' DRAWS CROWD TO MAJESTIC

Whoever "Kyra" may be—just "Kyra" is the only she appears on the program—she is one of the reasons why "The Whirl of New York," the New York Winter Garden show playing this week at the Majestic Theatre, could safely extend its engagement.

"Kyra" has two very white and very sinuous arms. It is well to make their number plain because after a few moments of her hinting at the redemption of Egyptian dancing, one wonders if she is the result of scientific stage lighting or if the arms really belong to her.

ARMS TWINE ABOUT BODY.

They twine about her body and her body winds itself about her arms. It is not until "Kyra" has become untwined for several minutes that one realizes that she has appeared in a normally built human being.

"Kyra" does one of the finest bits of Egyptian dancing that Boston has ever seen.

"The Whirl of New York" is which a little better and depends chiefly for its character upon the versatility of the individual members of its cast.

CLEVER PEOPLE IN CAST.

There is a generous number of clever people, however, to carry the show. Roy Cummings, in his own variety of horse-play, is the sort of person who makes a show of this kind enjoyable. Others are others in this class, too, chiefly Nancy Gibbs and Pierre de Roeder, Ben Bard, Jack Pearl and Billie Shaw.

Miss Gibbs and Miss Florence Schubert, queen of the bootleggers' Miss Schubert as both pretty and bright lines done equally as good advantage in her flippant role.

WALDRON'S CASINO — The Trocadero burlesquers, in the brilliant musical comedy offering, "The Land of Jazz," was the feature of the big three-in-one continuous performance at Waldron's Casino yesterday.

Operatic Night at "Pops"

A program consisting entirely of selections from the standard operas, in which field of music Agide Jacchia, the conductor, particularly shines, will be given at the "Pops" in Symphony Hall tonight.

The numbers follow:

Polonaise from "Eugen Onegin,"
.....Tschaikowsky
Overture to "William Tell"...Rossini
Meditation from "Thais"...Massenet
Fantasia, Introduction and Grand Dream Music from "Hansel and Gretel" .....Humperdinck Intermezzo, "L'amica Fritz"
.....Mascagni
Air, "Depuis le Jour," from "Louise" .....Charpentier
Excerpts from "Carmen,"

FIVE BRILLIANT ACTS ON BILL AT KEITH'S

Five acts stand out brilliantly on this week's program at Keith's Theatre, as brilliantly, in fact, that any one of the quintet could carry as a headliner.

Peggy Wood, who only recently starred in "Marjolaine" on Broadway, appears in an especially attractive singing and dancing number. She is assisted by her four Buddies and Harold Barz.

Valerie Bergere is fascinating in a Japanese pictorial, "O Jo San." The Wilson Sisters show their versatility in a snappy act covering a wide range of entertainment.

Joe Cook, the originator of one-man vaudeville, is a whole show in himself with his laugh-creating antics.

Then there is Val and Ernie Stanton, so-called "cake eaters," who drink their share of the Apollia, too.

Paul Sydell, with Spotty, a really clever dog, opens the evening's vaudeville entertainment and the Alexander Bros. and Evelyn, expert ball bouncers, close it, not to forget Harry and Denia Du Fur, a pair of dancers, with something new in the line of steps.

The usual pictures are given before and after the show.

Moving Pictures a Necessity

Reduction of Deaths by Tuberculosis One of Many Benefits Rendered the Public

"The moving picture has helped to reduce the deaths from tuberculosis." This is the statement of Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, director of the National Tuberculosis Association.

The National Tuberculosis Association held its annual meeting at Washington on May 4. The opening address was by Secretary of State Hughes. Dr. Charles J. Hatfield, managing director of the association, reported that since 1904, or in eighteen years, the campaign against tuberculosis has reduced the death rate one-half from that dreaded disease.

Dr. Hatfield said:

This announcement of the splendid results of eighteen years' work is also attributed to the power of public health, education, and the unfailing support of newspapers, magazines and MOTION PICTURES, which are the media of reaching the general public.

This is another example of the effectiveness of motion pictures as a power for propaganda. Examples are occuring every day in which motion pictures are to be put in the same class with newspapers with respect to their propagandist power or their power to convey information to the public and to influence public opinion. They do not differ from the newspapers, except that in some respects they have more power in these directions than the newspapers and magazines.

It is the propagandist power, that is to say, the power to carry information to the public and to influence the public, which the forefathers sought to protect when they forbade the government to abridge the freedom of the press and freedom of speech, and undertook to guarantee its freedom from all abridgment and repressive action.

Moving pictures are entitled to the same respect and the same protection, not in the interest of moving pictures, but in the interest of the public. If democracy needs the protection of the newspapers, it needs the protection of the moving pictures.

Truce in Ireland

Leaders Proved Themselves, as Predicted by the Boston American, Too Wise to Fall Into British Trap

The truce between the opposing factions signed by Mr. De Valera, Mr. Griffith and Mr. Collins, is just what we expected and predicted would happen between these intelligent and patriotic men.

Over and over again in the face of the triumph of those who did not want to see Ireland demonstrate its capacity for self-government, who wanted to see justified England's century-old pretense, that she was governing Ireland because she could not govern herself, the Boston American predicted that the people of Ireland and the Irish leaders would fall into no such British trap and were incapable of plunging into a fractricidal war.

The compact which assures the peaceful solution of the differences of opinion among the Irish people is a thing for rejoicing for the lovers of freedom all over the country. A blow at liberty cannot be struck anywhere, and the suicide of liberty cannot occur anywhere in the world without the pain of it being felt everywhere. So long as democracy is not safe everywhere it is really safe nowhere.

Poor Old Uncle Sam's Oil

He "Conserves It," for Others

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

Mr. Fall, Secretary of the Interior, tells you interesting truths about oil wells and how our Democratic friends in the last administration helped the public wealth to be wasted. This was the plan:

Uncle Sam has certain oil lands. Next door the big oil companies also had oil lands. Uncle Sam was persuaded that it was his duty to "conserve oil." He might need it later. So he conserved his oil lands—that is to say, he did nothing. And his neighbors next door pumped out the oil—incidentally exhausting to a large extent the deposits under Uncle Sam's lands.

And thus the oil taken from Uncle Sam's own land was sold to that poor foolish old Uncle at the highest possible price.

Mr. Fall says: "The government has lost tremendous quantities of oil through the failure of the former administration to drill the necessary protective wells."

He is talking about the San Francisco oil reserves. This writer several years ago pointed out to the government, in many different newspapers, that its oil was being drained out by neighboring users. Let's hope that under the present plan the government will get what it ought to get, and its profit, "the velvet," won't go to those that lease the people's land. Presumably Mr. Fall will attend to that.

Compulsory Whiskers

Mistake—Try Wigs

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

Sacramento is to celebrate the days of the forty-niners. It seems they all wore whiskers—for good reasons. They had no time to shave crossing the plains—too busy with the Indians—and no hot water or barber shops.

Now the Mayor and the City Council demand that all men in Sacramento shall start letting their whiskers grow in order to have a fine crop to show at the forty-niners' celebration to make it realistic. There is even talk of a fine for those that shave before the celebration is over.

It is wrong to check enthusiasm, and on the Pacific coast you CAN'T check it, anyhow. Sacramento is a great city with many powerful men that could grow powerful whiskers. They would grow in every direction like tangled underbrush by the way, after being saved for so long.

Have the Mayor and the City Council thought what germs will make a nest in those beards, how many babies will be frightened by them, how many foolish women, atavistically inclined, will foolishly admire them and insist on keeping them—how many barbers will mourn? Better, cheaper and healthier in the long run to let everybody buy false whiskers for the great celebration.

Somebody's Birthday

IF born today you are not the sort of person to whom one can say much about yourself. You have your own ideas on that subject and mere contradicting then will not easily amend them.

You are proud of yourself and your own intellectual power, and not without reason either, for you have a mind that is active and capable, but your vanity leads you to depreciate the ability of others. You are sure you can do a thing better yourself and the result is usually that you do it yourself.

Today is fortunate for travellers until high noon. Avoid movement after that hour.

The next year of your life will see many changes in your business and in your friendships. Avoid people born under the sign of Aries, March 21st to April 20th.

A child born today will be energetic and headstrong, and must be severely disciplined.

Famous persons born today:

James P. Espy, American meteorologist.

John Brown, anti-slavery leader.

Charles H. Cramp, shipbuilder.

Edward Weston, electrician

SOME ONE SHOULD TELL HIM

"Do you think, Mrs. Fairweather, that there is anything serious between your daughter and that young Mr. Bubbley?"

"I'm not sure yet; but if there isn't, he's going to miss a fine chance to work his way up to my husband's business."

TOO POLITE.

"Colonel, do you remember the time you proposed to me and I refused you?"

"Madam, it is the one moment in my life that I remember with the greatest pleasure."

IT FREQUENTLY IS A SAD WORLD

A suspicious woman never feels quite convinced that all is right after she has found a pink ribbon in the car her husband had out the night before.

STRETCHING LAME HANDS STRENGTHENS THEM

By Dr. Charles Fleischer

Copyright, 1922, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

IT is a law of our being that growth comes through use.

Muscular strength results from exercise, and strong lungs result from deep breathing. Ability to think grows with clear thinking, generosity with giving; love increases with loving, and even life with living.

There is a mysterious, mystic element in our human nature, an element of incalculable value, more tenuous than those already mentioned, and yet also obviously under the law of growth through use.

It is the element of faith.

In these days we are making a brave and scientific effort to understand this human nature, which is, of course, essentially what it has always been during man's historic period.

Much that has seemed to be the peculiar province of religion is coming, with religion, into the common uses of this workaday world.

Cult of Success

If you want to realize at once how practical this process is, turn to the advertisements in any magazine, and note how many of them are devoted to the cult of success.

Then turn to the announcements of Sunday services in the Saturday papers of such cities as New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles. You may or may not be surprised to discover how many of the meetings, under relatively new religious auspices, deal with this same practical interest of success.

Through these media and means, you can run the gamut of your ambitions and your aspirations. For they assure you that you can be whatever you desire to be.

And all of this instruction, whether by self-seeking, soulless exploiters or by soulful and consecrated ministers of religion, is based upon appeal for the use of that subtle, wonder-working element in our human nature—the quality of faith.

That quality is a reality, and its possible power is actually incalculable. Just what it is, we know not. But one would be false to one's self who did not try to use it for good, idealistic and practical.

What Is Faith?

The classic characterization of faith, which we have from the great Hebrew teacher, Paul, must here be mentioned. "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."

The latest interpretation by science and the most rational formulation of philosophy do not improve upon or change the passionately religious doctrine of the ancient Jewish teacher; nor does honest, common sense quarrel with the dishonest "psychologist" over the diagnosis of that mystic element in our human nature.

Whether for practical purposes of working your way through mountains of obstacles, in order to reach the goal of your ambition for wealth or place or power or for spiritual achievement of the peace that passeth understanding, faith and its use are indispensable to successful living.

Whatever, then, you want to attain or be or become, remember that your inward attainment or your outward achievement depends upon faith in your ability to achieve, plus endless effort to achieve.

Stretching lame hands strengthens them. Even strong hands thus grow stronger. Even faith grows through use, and the fruits of faith increase.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor Boston American:

Last week there was published, at the instance of Mr. James O'Hare, purporting to act for Engineers' Local 263, a statement which is likely to create a false impression among the engineers in Boston.

While it is true that Judge Jenney has ordered an injunction to issue to prevent the taking away of the charter, books and property of Local Union 263, yet it is also true that that decision is not final and an appeal therefrom must be decided by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

It is also true that Judge Jenney refused positively to interfere in any way with Local Union 849, although the lawyer for Local Union 263 pleaded most earnestly for him to do so. The judge said that it was not his intention to stop the activities of Local Union 849 or to take away its charter or interfere with it in any way whatsoever. This, of course, means that it is entirely lawful and proper for Local Union 849 to continue taking in members.

WILLIAM F. HACKETT,
Business Agent Local Union 849.

"Krazy Kat" Praised

THE comic strip—particularly in the case of George Herriman, the creator of Krazy Kat—is hailed as one of the highest expressions of American art in an article written by Gilbert Seldes appearing in Vanity Fair.

Mr. Seldes brushes aside as insignificant the proposition that the comic strip serves only to brighten and amuse. More than any current form of art, written or pictured, he insists, it goes to the heart of the American life and tells us just what we are. He declares that it has changed our manners, improved our customs, and arranged our lives as no other form of critical expressions ever has. He says:

"The comic strips, if we had the wit to notice them, would give us more aesthetic pleasure and intellectual satisfaction than 90 per cent of the novels, short stories, plays, musical comedies, moving pictures, oil paintings, literary essays, and political documents native to this country. They have the quality of experience, they have an unparalleled relevance to our modern life; they have humor; and a few of them have added to these things the touch of genius.

"But none of our realists can stand comparison with the Kat.

"Long ago Mr. Herriman worked the vein of domestic comedy in the Family Up-Stairs. Krazy and Ignatz entered originally as a footnote. An office boy named Willie was the first and Arthur Brisbane was the second to recognize the strange virtues of Krazy Kat. Slowly, Mr. Herriman developed the theme to its present elaborate perfection.

"I have claimed for Herriman a great imagination and a fine ironic humor. I must add that he is also a fine artist. The first thing, after the mad innocence of Krazy, is to notice how Herriman's mind is forever occupied with the southwestern desert, the enchanted mesa, Adobe walls, cactus, strange growths are the beginning; pure expressionism is the end.

"His landscape changes with each picture, always in fantasy. His strange, unnerving, distorted trees, his totally unlivable houses, his magic carpets, his faery foam, are items in a composition which is incredibly charged with unreality. Through them wanders Krazy, the most tender and the most foolish of creatures, a gentle monster of our new mythology."

SEEN AND HEARD

By Lambert and Daily

PARK COMMISSIONER JAMES B. SHEA has lost no time in putting the required "technique" to one of the city's most wonderful spots, the Arnold Arboetum. Already classes from various colleges have made sketches of its beauties.

The GEORGE ROBERT WHITE Fund headquarters are open for business at room 45 in City Hall. GEORGE E. PHELAN, who is manager of the fund, has fitted up the office in the very latest style, installed a secretary, and announced that the books are open to the public.

HERE'S A BUSY MAN—WILLIAM P. "BILLY" LONG, deputy park commissioner, has to make a survey of the entire park system of Boston each day. With the opening of the Summer season, the floral displays, and the taking care of playgrounds for twilight baseball, "BILLY" sure does have to go some.

REPRESENTATIVE EDWARD F. HARRINGTON of Fall River asks that this bit of advice be given to injured workingmen and women who are receiving Workmen's Compensation Insurance: "Don't go back to work at the risk of your health on the say so of the insurance agents. The only authority that can stop your compensation and order you back to work is the Industrial Accident Board."

The delegation of South American women that called upon Lieutenant-Governor Fuller at the State House was headed by Senorita Margarita Conroy.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY THOMAS C. O'BRIEN is proudly sporting a K. of C. fourth degree watch charm. It was presented to him recently by the members of the Brighton Council, of which he is a member.

WALTER J. MILLARD is here from Cleveland under the auspices of the Good Government Association to interest Boston in proportional representation. The present Irish government was elected by that system, and Millard said he is informed that the same system will be used in the general elections test between the Irish Free State and the Republicans.

Governor Cox's daily mail includes at least half a dozen pathetic requests for liberty from the inmates of penal institutions or from their families. SECRETARY HERMAN A. MacDONALD says hard times and the absence of the bread-winners have hit many families a hard blow.

GARRETT P. SERVISS ON THE GULF STREAM

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Would like to hear from you in regard to the Gulf Stream; would like to know why the water does not cool off in travelling so great a distance, and why the stream is able to keep its course in so great a body of water as the ocean.—F. R., Ilion, N. Y."

THE Gulf Stream is one of the most wonderful phenomena in this world. It is veritably a vast river in the ocean. There are many other ocean currents, but none equal to the Gulf Stream in the power, swiftness and definiteness of its current and in the influence that it exercises over the habitability of most important regions of the earth. The very contentions and disputes to which it has given rise among physicists and geographers tend to establish its importance in the natural history of the globe.

It is a deep sea stream, yet it owes its origin to simple surface or wind currents. The singularity and splendor of its birthplace add to its distinction, besides giving to it its name.

Its Cradle

The Caribbean Sea and the Gulf of Mexico combine to form its cradle of two compartments, while the West India Islands and Cuba assist in the gathering of its waters and their concentration into a flood fifty miles wide at its narrowest place that sweeps the coral mud clean from the sea bottom at a depth of more than two thousand feet between Florida and the Bahamas, and then goes on, spreading finally across the Atlantic in surface drift that saves the British Isles from the chilly consequences of their high northern latitude, enamels the shores of France and even makes its genial influence felt near the fiords of Norway.

It is an American production, but America gets comparatively little of its benefaction, for as it progresses northeastward along the Atlantic coast it finally meets the ice-cold Labrador current from the glaciers of Greenland, which, by a deflecting effect of the earth's rotation, crowds in between the warm current from the Gulf and the coast north of Hatteras, building up what has been named the "Cold Wall"—a wall of Arctic water—to which we are mainly indebted for our chilly Springtimes.

The same deflecting force that drives the Labrador current upon our shores causes the Gulf Stream to trend eastward, for this force is always directed toward the right-hand side of the current affected, whether it flows toward the south or toward the north.

I have spoken of the definiteness of the Gulf Stream considered as a river in the ocean. This definiteness or sharpness of border is, however, only found (at least in ordinary circumstances) within a few hundred miles of the point where the stream issues from the Strait of Florida. There the waters of the stream are of a splendid dark blue color, in contrast with the surrounding ocean water, and it has been asserted, although I have never beheld the sight myself, that a ship may sometimes lie across the edge of the stream with its bow buried in the blue liquid from the gulf while the stern is in the ordinary Atlantic water.

The temperature of the stream near the strait is 80 degrees or more, and even north of the latitude of Cape Hatteras it is often 20 degrees and sometimes 30 degrees warmer than the "Cold Wall" waters between it and the shore. However, its temperature does not remain very much above the temperature of the general surface of the Atlantic after it has arrived in latitudes farther north than Hatteras. Still, after it has become spread out so much that its stream-like character is lost, it retains considerable heat.

Its warming effects on the western and northwestern coasts of Europe are no doubt augmented by the heat of the general northward drift in the middle of the Atlantic. Of course, the depth and velocity of the stream diminish quite rapidly as it spreads wider and wider. Its speed in the Strait of Florida is about five miles per hour, but this gradually diminishes to a mile and a half off the banks of Newfoundland and becomes much less than that further east.

Drift Currents

The drift currents that arise to the Gulf Stream by driving their waters into the depression of the Gulf of Mexico are the due to the northern trade winds which blow steadily between the Tropic of Cancer and the equator.

This equatorial current is originally forced along in a great westward sloping shoulder of the South America, which diverts the water into the Caribbean, from which it passes into the gulf between Yucatan and Cuba, and there actually heaped up until it is level with the sea level at the Florida Keys, or even somewhat higher than that of the Atlantic off New York. Its only way of escape is around the toe of Florida through the narrow strait shaped like a bottle-neck.

EX LIBRIS

By Zoe B. Faber

A BOOK has recently appeared in print which will surely cause a great deal of comment and most of it will be favorable. It is a sort of roundtable discussion on thirty vital subjects, and as each subject is mentioned the representative man of his profession is called on by the chairman (Harold E. Stearns, editor) to rise and give his views to his large invisible audience.

"Civilization in the United States" is without a doubt a fascinating book. To bring out only a few of the subjects that are covered in this interesting way, there are the City Journalism, the Law, Music, Poetry, Medicine, Sport and Play, Humor and a host of others. In every instance the story of that particular subject has been told well and in a simple, readable fashion by the man or woman high in that field.

One thinks towards the last of the famous remark of Bismarck: "Oh! was the power the people, to see ourselves as others see us!" as one comes to some of the most interesting conclusions of the book, "American Civilization From the Foreign Point of View." English, Irish and Italian. It's always fair to the point to know what a fellow on the outside thinks of us than what the fellow one inside thinks, for too often the latter is too close to have an unbiased outlook.

The book is one that you'll want to read a little at a time, but you will enjoy it thoroughly and you will get a great deal out of it, for no matter what your individual interests may be, it is scarcely possible that they're not touched at some point in this book.

Harcourt, Brace are the publishers of this very unusual volume.
